Information for Faculty Offering Instruction in Arts and Sciences 2006–07

July 1, 2006

Review of academic, financial, and other considerations leads to changes in the policies, rules, and regulations applicable to students and instructors, and the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, therefore, reserves the right to make changes at any time. These changes may affect such matters as tuition and all other fees, courses, degrees and programs offered (including the modification or possible elimination of degrees and programs), degree and other academic requirements, academic policies, rules pertaining to student conduct and discipline, fields or areas of concentration, and other rules and regulations applicable to students and instructors.

While every effort has been made to ensure that this book is accurate and up-to-date, it may include typographical or other errors. Changes are periodically made to this publication and will be incorporated in supplements and/or new editions.

To the Faculty

Information for Faculty Offering Instruction in Arts and Sciences is intended to serve as a convenient reference for the educational policies of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences (FAS). In addition to a discussion of instructors' responsibilities, matters related to course administration, and problems often encountered by students, this booklet includes a summary of teaching resources available to instructors, a directory of College and Graduate School of Arts and Sciences (GSAS) officers, and a detailed academic calendar.

All members of the FAS are urged to consult this booklet as issues arise in the administration of their courses and in their work with the students. New members of the FAS will, it is hoped, take time to acquaint themselves with all aspects of this booklet and especially with the various policies and regulations that are particular to Harvard. Avoiding misunderstandings before the fact can save valuable time and spare unnecessary embarrassment.

For example, it is important to understand that while graduate students may receive a grade of Incomplete, undergraduates cannot. In the matter of an extension of time, instructors may offer undergraduates an extension of time to complete course work until the end of the Examination Period; however, only with the express permission of the Administrative Board of Harvard College may instructors accept undergraduate work after the end of the Examination Period. Final and approved Make-Up Examinations are scheduled and proctored by the Registrar's Office, but the instructor is expected to be available throughout the exam to answer student questions. Instructors may not excuse a student from the final examination or make special arrangements to administer the exam at a time other than that scheduled by the Registrar. Any student absent from a regularly scheduled exam is given the grade of ABS, a failing grade. Instructors should be in residence throughout the academic year, including the Reading and Examination Periods. Short absences require approval of the department chair; absences of more than one week must be approved by the Dean of the Faculty. Exclusion from a course, grade changes, and the retention of blue examination books constitute further areas to which new faculty members are urged to give special attention.

Every effort has been made to explain these matters as clearly as possible in the following pages. However, should questions remain, a directory of the FAS staff members appears on page 70 to provide further assistance.

Introduction

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences includes both Harvard College and the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. As with each of the nine faculties of the University, the chief administrative officer of the FAS is its Dean. The Dean oversees both financial and academic planning for the Faculty as well as its many libraries, museums, laboratories, and centers.* The Dean is advised by an eighteen-member Faculty Council elected by and from the officers of the FAS.

Two distinguishing features of Harvard College that involve the direct participation of faculty members are the House System and the Core Curriculum.

The House System

From the beginning of his presidency, A. Lawrence Lowell aspired to create a residential system for Harvard College modeled on Oxford and Cambridge Universities. In 1928 the generous gift of a Yale alumnus, Edward S. Harkness, made that ambition a reality. Three entirely new Houses were constructed and four others created from existing residential halls, establishing the nucleus of the current House system.

All Harvard upperclassmen have a House affiliation. (The freshmen live in dormitories located within or adjacent to Harvard Yard. During their first year in the College they are advised by the Office of the Dean of Freshmen.) Most upperclassmen live in the Houses, each of which also affords a dining room, a library, and a variety of activities designed to foster the easy mix of social and intellectual life that President Lowell envisaged for the House system. For example, the Houses may offer seminars for course credit (see page 26). They routinely sponsor language tables and tables where students interested in a specific pursuit can gather to exchange ideas. Every term the Houses hold faculty dinners to permit undergraduates to invite their instructors for an evening of relaxed conversation and, conversely, to provide faculty members with a means to meet their students informally and learn more about their curricular and extracurricular lives.

Each House is overseen by a resident Master, usually a senior faculty member or senior administrator, and is also served by an Allston Burr Resident Dean (formerly Senior Tutor). The Resident Dean advises students in the House on academic and personal matters and represents House members at the Administrative Board. (Instructors concerned for whatever reason about the performance or well being of an undergraduate should contact the appropriate Resident Dean or Resident Dean for Freshmen.) Also integral to the life of the House are the Resident Tutors, who serve as social and academic advisers to the undergraduate residents of the House. They may in some cases serve as concentration advisers to the undergraduates, and they also fill a variety of administrative roles in the House. (Graduate students from the various Faculties may apply to the Masters for these positions beginning in late January.)

* Services shared by all nine faculties of the University such as food services, health services, police, fiscal services, and facilities maintenance are administered by the Office of the President.

For further discussion of this point see the Handbook for Students which provides extensive discussion of the procedures of the Administrative Board.

Faculty members, administrators, Cambridge community members, and visiting scholars are eligible for affiliation with the individual Houses and comprise the Senior Common Room. Participation in a Senior Common Room affords individuals the opportunity not only to meet people from other departments but also to make contact with undergraduates in the casual atmosphere of the House dining rooms or at the varied House functions.

The Core Curriculum

The philosophy of the Core Curriculum rests on the conviction that every Harvard undergraduate should be broadly educated as well as trained in the particular discipline of a chosen concentration (major). By Faculty vote, undergraduates must pass one letter-graded course in seven of the eleven areas of the Core Curriculum. All students are exempt from four area requirements on the basis of their field of concentration. The eleven areas of the Core Curriculum are:

|-----------------------|------------------------|
| Foreign Cultures | Moral Reasoning |
| Historical Study A | Quantitative Reasoning |
| Historical Study B | Science A |
| Literature and Arts A | Science B |
| Literature and Arts B | Social Analysis |
| Literature and Arts C | |

The specific definitions and guidelines of each area may be found in the Core Program section of Courses of Instruction.

The Core is administered by a Standing Committee of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences and by subcommittees representing each of the major Core areas. The Office of the Core is located at 77 Dunster Street (617-495-2563).*

* Detailed information on the Core Requirement as well as all other requirements for the bachelor's degree can be found in the Handbook for Students.

Academic Calendar

The current Faculty of Arts and Sciences (FAS) Academic Calendar is located at www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu.

Fall Term 2006–2007

August 1, Tuesday

Applications for non-resident status for the fall term or academic year for graduate students are due in department offices.

Applications for part-time graduate study due in the GSAS Dean's Office, Byerly Hall.

September 11, Monday

Registration must be completed for all freshmen and new transfer students in Harvard College.

September 13, Wednesday

Registration must be completed for all graduate students in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Registration must be completed for special students and visiting fellows in the GSAS.

September 13, Wednesday, through September 14, Thursday

Derek Bok Center Teaching Orientation for teaching fellows and faculty members.

September 15, Friday

Registration must be completed for all returning and continuing undergraduate students in Harvard College.

Registration must be completed for all visiting undergraduate students in Harvard College.

September 22, Friday

Undergraduate applications for November 2006 degrees (AB and SB) must be submitted on or before this date.

Study Card Day
September 22, Friday

Completed study cards for upperclassmen will be collected at the Houses and are due before 5 pm.

September 25, Monday

Completed study cards for freshmen are due between 9 am and 5 pm in Straus Common Room. Completed study cards for new transfer students and visiting undergraduates are due between 9 am and 5 pm in University Hall, first floor.

Any study card filed after these dates requires the instructor's signature for every course listed.

September 25, Monday

Last day upon which undergraduates may register for the fall term.

Last day upon which undergraduates may cancel their registration for the fall term without payment of tuition.

September 26, Tuesday

Preliminary course lists available on-line at www.my.harvard.edu.

October 2, Monday

Last day upon which undergraduates may complete cross-registration.

Last day upon which undergraduates may drop or add any course without a fee.

Last day upon which graduate students may cancel their registration for the fall term without payment of tuition.

Approved graduate dissertations due for November degree candidates.

October 9, Monday

University holiday: Columbus Day.

Makeup examinations for 2005–2006 spring term begin.

Last day upon which students from other schools may complete cross-registration in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

October 16, Monday

Fifth Monday of the term. Last day upon which undergraduates may drop or add any course or change the grade status of a letter-graded or Pass/Fail course.

Plans of Study due for transfer students entering in September 2006.

October 27, Friday, through October 28, Saturday

Freshman Parents Weekend. Parents may attend classes on Friday.

October 30, Monday

Seventh Monday of the term. Last day upon which undergraduates may petition to withdraw from a fall term course.

Last day upon which graduate students may register for or add fall term courses. After this date, graduate students may add or register for TIME only.

November 3, Friday

Midterm grades (including unsatisfactory grade reports) due before 5 pm for undergraduates in courses below the 200-level.

November 10, Friday

University holiday: Veterans' Day.

November 14, Tuesday

Last day upon which graduate students may drop a course.

November 23, Thursday, through November 26, Sunday

Thanksgiving recess.

November 27, Monday

Undergraduate applications for March 2007 degrees (AB and SB) must be submitted on or before this date.

Last day to change concentration for March 2007 degree candidates without Administrative Board approval.

Last day upon which March 2007 degree candidates (AB and SB) may file for a foreign language citation study plan.

Advanced Standing eligible students planning to graduate after six or seven terms in March 2008, or to begin a fourth year AM program in spring term 2008, must file "Advanced Standing Activation Form" by this date.

December 1, Friday

Graduate applications for March 2007 degrees (AM, SM, ME, MFS, and PhD) must be submitted on or before this date.

December 20, 2006, Wednesday through January 1, 2007, Monday

Winter recess.

January 1, Monday

Graduate student applications for non-resident status for the spring term due in department offices.

Applications for part-time graduate study due in the GSAS Dean's Office, Byerly Hall.

January 2, Tuesday

Last day in the fall term upon which undergraduates will ordinarily be granted a leave of absence from the College.

Reading Period

January 2, Tuesday, through January 12, Friday

January 12, Friday

Last day in the fall term upon which graduate students may petition for late withdrawal from a course.

Examination Period

January 13, Saturday, through January 23, Tuesday

See the Office of the Registrar's website, www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu, and the Examination Poster which lists exam times and locations for fall term courses.

January 15, Monday

University holiday: Martin Luther King, Jr. Day.

Fall Final/Midyear Grades Due

January 16, Tuesday, through January 29, Monday

See page 54 for schedule of due dates.

January 26, Friday

Approved graduate dissertations due for March degree candidates.

Spring Term 2006–2007

January 30, Tuesday

Last day upon which graduate students may submit work for Incomplete grades from the 2005–2006 spring term.

Derek Bok Center Teaching Orientation for teaching fellows and faculty members.

Spring Term Begins

January 31, Wednesday

First meeting of spring term classes.

January 31, Wednesday

Registration must be completed for all continuing and returning undergraduate students.

Registration must be completed for all visiting undergraduates and transfer students.

Registration must be completed for continuing and new special students, visiting fellows, and all new, returning, and continuing students in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences.

Study Card Day

February 7, Wednesday

Study cards are due for all students. Any study card filed after this date requires the instructor's signature for every course listed.

February 7, Wednesday

Last day upon which undergraduates may register for the spring term.

Last day upon which undergraduates may cancel their registration for the spring term without payment of tuition.

February 8, Thursday

Preliminary course lists available on-line at www.my.harvard.edu.

February 9, Friday

Last day upon which graduate students may cancel their registration for the spring term without payment of tuition.

February 16, Friday

Last day upon which undergraduates may complete cross-registration.

February 19, Monday

University holiday: Presidents' Day.

Last day upon which undergraduates may drop or add any course without a fee.

February 20, Tuesday

Makeup examinations for 2006–2007 fall term begin.

March 2, Friday, through March 3, Saturday

Junior Parents Weekend. Parents may attend classes on Friday.

March 5, Monday

Fifth Monday of the term. Last day upon which undergraduates may drop or add any course or change the grade status of a letter-graded or Pass/Fail course.

Last day upon which undergraduates may divide full courses with half-course credit.

Plans of Study due for transfer students entering in Spring Term 2006–2007.

Last day upon which students from other schools may complete cross-registration in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

March 16, Friday

Midterm grades (including unsatisfactory grade reports) due before 5 pm for undergraduates in courses below the 200-level.

March 19, Monday

Seventh Monday of the term. Last day upon which undergraduates may petition to withdraw from a spring term course.

Last day upon which graduate students may register for or add spring term courses. After this date, graduate students may add or register for TIME only.

March 24, Saturday, through April 1, Sunday

Spring recess.

April 2, Monday

Graduate student applications for June 2007 degrees (AM, SM, ME, MFS, and PhD) must be submitted on or before this date.

April 3, Tuesday

Last day upon which graduate students may drop a course or divide a full course with half-course credit.

April 13, Friday

Undergraduate student applications for June 2007 degrees (AB and SB) must be submitted on or before this date.

Last day to change concentration without Administrative Board approval for June and November 2007 degree candidates.

Last day upon which June and November 2007 degree candidates (AB and SB) may file a foreign language citation study plan.

Last day upon which June 2007 degree candidates may file applications for Secondary Fields.

Advanced Standing eligible students planning to graduate after six or seven terms in June or November 2008, or to begin a fourth year AM program in fall term 2008, must file the “Advanced Standing Activation Form” by this date.

May 5, Saturday

Last day in the spring term upon which undergraduates will ordinarily be granted a leave of absence from the College.

Reading Period

Responsibilities of Instructors

Instructors' Presence During the Academic Year

Instructors are expected to be in residence throughout the academic year, including the Reading Periods and Examination Periods. However, short absences may become necessary and are permissible, so long as academic responsibilities are met or adequately covered and the following procedures have been observed. Frequent short absences within a term are strongly discouraged, even if teaching and other responsibilities are covered, as such absences significantly hamper a faculty member's ability to meet responsibilities to students and academic programs.

Faculty members who must be absent during term time for a period of more than one week or for a shorter period which, nevertheless, requires some reduction or change in scheduled instruction should first consult the Chair of the appropriate department(s) and/or the Director of the Core Program. The Chair and/or Director will determine whether all teaching responsibilities are to be adequately covered. If the proposed absence is for one week or less, no further approval is necessary. To request an absence of more than one week, the faculty member should apply to the Office of Academic Affairs, stating the reason for the absence and the provisions made for meeting academic responsibilities. "Permission to be Absent" forms are available for this purpose from the Office of Academic Affairs or departmental administrators and require the endorsement of the department Chair.

Responsibility for Instruction

Responsibility for instruction rests solely with the head of the course. This person's name appears with the course listing in Courses of Instruction as the instructor of the course. If there are several instructors, the name of the course head appears first. The course head alone signs study cards and receives course lists and grade sheets. Only an individual holding a teaching appointment can be a course head. "Teaching appointment" is understood here as any FAS appointment at the rank of Lecturer, Preceptor, or Professor (assistant, associate, or full), and for undergraduate teaching only, Instructor. Teaching Fellowships, Teaching Assistantships, and Course Assistantships are not teaching appointments in this context; persons holding these ranks assist in courses or tutorials under the supervision of those holding teaching appointments. Recommendations for teaching appointments may be made only by departments or committees empowered to offer courses for credit.

Only assistant, associate, or full professors in other Harvard Faculties who offer courses for academic credit in that Faculty may teach in the FAS without an FAS teaching appointment. All other non-FAS faculty—those holding appointments below the rank of assistant professor or those who do not offer courses for academic credit in their Faculty—may teach in the FAS only if they are appointed to the rank of Lecturer in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences under the normal rules governing such appointments.

The term "responsibility for instruction" includes:

- Responsibility for the structure and content of the course, including any regular sections of the course;
- Responsibility for the continuity of course meetings, whether these be lecture or discussion groups;

- Responsibility for the evaluation of student performance in the course, including the performance of students who may have been granted makeup examinations that take place the following term; and
- Responsibility for the screening and selection of teaching fellows, teaching assistants, and course assistants in accordance with policies established by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and/or the department.

None of the above responsibilities may be delegated to persons not holding teaching appointments.

Instructors who hold a teaching appointment or who assist in courses or tutorials may not give private instruction for pay to students in the University without the consent of the Chair of the department concerned and the Dean of the Faculty. Under no circumstances may instructors privately tutor for pay in courses in which they are employed by the University.

Responsibility for Evaluation

Responsibility for evaluation rests with the individual listed in Courses of Instruction as the instructor in charge (the course head). For courses taught by more than one instructor, the course head is listed in the catalog first and the others are listed alphabetically. For Independent Study (see page 26) responsibility rests with that individual holding a teaching appointment who has signed the petition permitting the student to enroll.

In some large courses or tutorials, teaching fellows, teaching assistants, or course assistants may have a role in the evaluation of the students in the course, subject to the limitations set by the Faculty Council and the Educational Policy Committee (see below). Nevertheless, the course head is responsible for ensuring that the standards for evaluating student work are equitable across all sections of a course, and the final responsibility for each grade rests with the course head. This includes the evaluation of makeup examinations that are administered during the following term.

The work of graduate students, including those enrolled in courses open to both graduate and undergraduate students (100-level and below), should be evaluated only by individuals holding teaching appointments as defined in the section “Responsibility for Instruction” (see page 14). “Work” refers to major examinations and written exercises but not necessarily to problem sets, laboratory work, or similar exercises. In the same light, while undergraduate course assistants may participate in the evaluation of students, they should not be involved in the subjective evaluation of essays and examinations.

Professional Conduct

The following text was approved by the Faculty Council for distribution to the full Faculty, not as a codification of official institutional policy but as a “discussion document” to be used as a point of reference. An earlier version of this text was discussed at the Faculty Meeting of October 17, 1995.

The secret of education lies in respecting the pupil.
—Emerson

The importance of professional conduct within the academic community is self-evident, but what precisely is meant by the phrase is not. For “professional conduct” covers a multitude of situations. No single style or method of teaching guarantees it; a teacher may be appropriately professional whether meeting students at a café or in an office, whether by nature gregarious and sociable, or shy and reserved. Yet there are principles underlying the concept, that allow it to be honored when present and deplored when absent. In a university setting, professional conduct rests upon an enduring respect for fellow human beings and for the vocation of teaching, and a recognition that a teacher's powers and responsibilities must not be abused. The basic principles may be easier to appreciate abstractly than to apply while teaching.

The list that follows is designed to bring these principles into focus as a basis for discussion among and between faculty, teaching fellows, and other instructional support staff.

Issues for Consideration

Authority By virtue of their authority within the academic community, teachers have the power to influence thought and behavior, and the concomitant responsibility to recognize the potential weight of their verbal and non-verbal expressions. As leaders in the classroom, teachers have the responsibility not only to impart the excitement of ideas and the challenge of academic debate, but also the importance of courtesy and respect in intellectual dialogue.

Fair Treatment of All Students Students should be treated even-handedly. Equity is not necessarily achieved, however, by treating all students in precisely the same way. For example, some students respond positively to hearty, well-intoned criticism while others are discouraged by it. Some students welcome public comments about their work, while others are embarrassed by them. Genuinely even-handed treatment of students depends upon making a conscientious attempt to recognize and appreciate such differences. Teachers (and students) should guard particularly against ethnic, religious, sexual, and other discriminatory stereotyping.

Interpersonal Relations The power teachers exercise over students to penalize or reward in the form of grades and recommendations requires caution in interpersonal interactions, and the need to avoid the kind of familiarity that compromises objective and fair evaluation of a student's work. In particular, sexual advances towards or liaisons with one's students are inappropriate, and violate University policy. Within these limits, however, intellectual mentoring and friendly interaction are important elements of the learning and teaching process.

Clear Communication Because the evaluation of students partly depends on their understanding of the requirements of a course, course heads should be clear in their articulation of expectations, assignments, and the rules of collaboration and citation. Providing written explanations of assignments and requirements reduces the risk of misunderstanding. Students have a right to expect prompt return of papers and exams and a clear justification of evaluation, just as instructors have the right to expect that assignments will be thoughtfully completed on time.

Classroom Engagement The classroom is frequently the site of intense intellectual debate—or, alternatively, unbearable silence. Maintaining an environment for a constructive contest between ideas and their supporting evidence is primarily the responsibility of the teacher. Teachers should be aware of any tendency to favor one mode of argument over another, in which only certain students thrive; of the importance of listening attentively and with respect; and of the significance of nonverbal clues (nods, frowns, gestures, etc.).

Services

Criticism of Work

Comments should be directed at the work, not the person; and they should contribute to the refinement of both thinking and presentation. Peremptory dismissiveness is not appropriate.

Grades

Professors are responsible for the oversight of all grades given by teaching fellows.

Letters of Recommendation

Students depend on instructors for letters of recommendation. Honesty and fairness in responding to requests for recommendations are essential.

Advising

Access to advising should be offered and equally afforded to all.

Confidentiality and Discretion Teachers are privy to information (and opinions) about students that ought to remain confidential. Exceptions should be made only in cases of emergency, such as threat of suicide, or other harmful behavior, when confidentiality is secondary to a student's welfare. Talking with colleagues or other students about confidential student information is inappropriate, as is any form of public embarrassment or shaming of a student.

Collegial Conduct Status differences exist within the teaching staff of every university. Awareness of the relative positions of colleagues in the academic hierarchy may avoid placing them in awkward or compromising situations. The implications of making particular requests of one's juniors ought to be considered before making them; the right to refuse, for reasonable cause, without consequence, ought to be guaranteed every member of the community. Professional and research opportunities should be awarded with equity and fairness.

Student Privacy

The University has a legal obligation to protect the privacy of students and the confidentiality of student records. No information about a student's academic performance can be released without the student's written permission. It is equally important to respect students' privacy when distributing their grades. Instructors should be careful not to leave papers, projects, or examinations in unattended public areas. Similarly, grades should never be posted with the students' names, and/or Harvard University Identification (HUID) numbers. Such practices are a violation of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. Questions about the confidentiality of student records and about the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act may be directed to the Registrar, 20 Garden Street (617-495-1545). (See also Posting of Grades on page 57.)

Use of the FAS Computing and Network Services

Faculty members are provided access to University computer facilities for academic use. Information about academic computing and network services offered by the FAS Computing Services is available in the section "Harvard University Faculty of Arts and Sciences Computer Services" (see page 65) and through Faculty and Staff Computer Support (fasc@fas or 617-496-2727).

Privacy of Information

The unauthorized examination of information stored on a computer system or sent electronically over a network is a breach of academic and community standards. Systems administrators, however, may gain access to users' data or programs when it is necessary to maintain or prevent damage to systems or to address other extraordinary situations.

On shared and networked computer systems certain information about users and their activities is visible to others. Users are cautioned that certain accounting and directory information (for example, user names and email addresses), certain records of file names and executed commands, and information stored in public areas, are not private.

Faculty members who are using shared or networked computer systems have the legal obligation to maintain the privacy of electronic files containing confidential student information such as course grades and letters of recommendation. For this reason, please take extra care when sending email to confirm the recipient's address, as many addresses are similar. There are also various techniques for protecting confidential electronic files such as locking or encrypting them. For advice on securing electronic information, consult Faculty and Staff Computer Support at (617-496-2727).

Students Requiring Accessible Education

Accessible Education Office

Louise Russell, Director

(617-496-8707)/V, (617-496-3720)/V/TTY, Fax: (617-495-0815)

Email: aeo@fas

www.aeo.fas.harvard.edu/

Harvard University is committed to providing students requiring accessible education and who have documented disabilities access to the same programs and activities that are available to students without disabilities. The Accessible Education Office (AEO) works with faculty to make this possible. Federal law defines a disability as a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits or restricts the condition, manner, or duration under which an average person in the population can perform a major life activity, such as walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, working, or taking care of oneself.

Members of the Faculty best know the essential components of courses. Accommodations are not intended to compromise the central components of a course. For more information about essential components, visit the AEO website at the following address: www.aeo.fas.harvard.edu/essential_components.html.

The course head is responsible for all accommodations and assistance needed for classroom instruction, midterm and hourly examinations, including finding a separate room for exam administration. If a student requires a scribe or similar service to write for a midterm or hourly exam, the course head is responsible for arranging for this service and coordinating payment through the department. Accommodations for final examinations however are made directly through AEO and the Examinations Office (see entry below.) Ongoing communication and collaboration on the part of faculty, teaching staff, AEO, administrators, and students themselves is essential. Students who request accommodations should present instructors with an introductory letter from AEO giving an overview of the approved accommodations. Students making such requests without this letter should be referred directly to AEO. Providing accommodations in the course to students who are not registered with AEO can result in inconsistent performance by a student who is ultimately ineligible to receive accommodations for final examinations. It is important that all communication with students regarding accommodation issues be individualized and confidential.

Course heads should routinely note in the course syllabus and by announcing at the first class meeting that students who need accommodations should contact the teaching staff to discuss and implement satisfactory arrangements for sectioning, course materials, and examinations. Faculty are encouraged to include the following paragraph in the syllabus:

Any student needing academic adjustments or accommodations is requested to present their letter from the Accessible Education Office (AEO) and speak with the professor by the end of the second week of the term, (specific date). Failure to do so may result in the Course Head's inability to respond in a timely manner. All discussions will remain confidential, although AEO may be consulted to discuss appropriate implementation.

Faculty who take into account variations in learning for all students know that effective strategies for instruction frequently obviate the need for accommodations. Some suggestions are:

- Provide students who are visually impaired, blind, have learning/reading difficulties, or who are otherwise print-challenged with reformatted instructional and testing materials in their accessible format at the same time as all students. Students and AEO may notify courses that advance copies of materials may need to be made available in order to reformat materials appropriately. Increased reliance on and availability of digital text benefits all students. Other formats may include Braille, audio tape, or enlarged print.
- Assist students who are deaf or hard of hearing by ensuring seating space is available in the front of the room and by making sure the room has appropriate lighting. If movies or slide presentations occur, an alternative lighting source will be required for students who need to see interpreters. Some students may use FM listening devices associated with their hearing aids that require teaching staff use a wireless (non-amplifying) microphone. Attempts should be made to provide open captioned films and videos.
- Call for volunteers from the class as soon as the need for note taking and scribes for in-class exercises becomes apparent, taking care not to disclose the student's name or condition. Sometimes members of the teaching staff assume the role of scribe for examinations.
- Ensure that lectures, sections, review sessions, etc. are held in physically accessible spaces when required. The Registrar's Office classroom section (617-495-1541) can assist when relocation of a course is necessary.

When students make course changes after study card day and before the fifth Monday of the term, it is understood that significant delays in the preparation of reformatted materials may result, affecting both students and instructional staff.

Adaptive Technology Laboratory
Harvard University Science Center 103
atl@fas, (617-496-8800)
www.fas.harvard.edu/~ims/ATL/index.html

The Adaptive Technology Laboratory (ATL) serves FAS students registered with AEO and who depend on print alternatives to access course materials. The ATL provides adaptive computing devices, voice recognition technology, text reformatting services and laptops for in-class exams.

Faculty members requiring handouts, lecture notes or other course materials converted into digital text, Braille, or enlarged text can contact the ATL for assistance. If a student requires the use of a computer for an accommodation, faculty may email the ATL to arrange for an equipment loan. Arrangements for reformatted material or the loan of equipment should be made least 5 business days in advance.

Final Examinations and AEO Accommodations

The Office of the Registrar provides accommodations for all scheduled final examinations. The Registrar may consult with faculty and AEO when access and equity questions pertaining to accommodations arise. For questions concerning the administration of final exams (e.g., dropping off/picking up exams, location of students, etc.) please contact the Examinations Office, fasexams@fas, or (617-495-1542). For questions concerning accommodations, please call AEO (617-496-8707) Voice, or (617-496-3720) V/TTY, or E-mail aeo@fas.

An additional relevant resource is Making Accommodations: The Legal World of Students with Disabilities, by Paul D. Grossman, published in Academe, the bimonthly magazine of the American Association of University Professors, November–December 2001, Volume 87, Number 6. Available at www.aaup.org/publications/academe/2001/01nd/01ndgro.htm.

Sexual Harassment

The Faculty has devoted considerable attention to the topic of sexual harassment and has adopted guidelines describing harassment and procedures for resolving complaints. Both documents are available from the Office of Academic Affairs, University Hall, Third Floor (617-495-3612). They are also available at www.fas.harvard.edu/home/administration/sexual_harass_officers.html.

The first document, entitled Sexual Harassment: Guidelines in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, is a policy statement describing what constitutes sexual harassment; it defines sexual harassment in the following way:

The determination of what constitutes sexual harassment will vary with the particular circumstances, but it may be described generally as unwanted sexual behavior, such as physical contact or verbal comments, jokes, questions, or suggestions. In the academic context, the fundamental element of sexual harassment is ordinarily the inappropriate personal attention by an instructor or other officer who is in a position to exercise professional power over another individual. [...]Such behavior is unacceptable in a university. It seriously undermines the atmosphere of trust essential to the academic enterprise.

The statement also addresses the issue of amorous relationships between individuals of different university status:

Amorous relationships that might be appropriate in other circumstances always have inherent dangers when they occur between any teacher or officer of the University for whom he or she has a professional responsibility (i.e. as teacher, adviser, evaluator, supervisor). [...]Officers and other members of the teaching staff should be aware that any romantic involvement with their students makes them liable for formal action against them.

The guidelines also indicate the manner in which sexual harassment may have an adverse impact in a scholarly community:

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences seeks to maintain a learning and work environment free from sexual harassment, including unprofessional conduct in faculty-student relationships and sexism in the classroom. These kinds of behavior are barriers to the educational, scholarly, and research purposes of the University.

The second document, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences' Procedures for the Resolution of Sexual Harassment Problems, describes the options available to any member of the FAS community who believes that he or she has been sexually harassed. For information about the procedures for complaints of sexual harassment, consult:

- the Assistant Dean of Harvard College (for undergraduates), or
- the Associate Dean for Student Affairs at the Graduate School (for graduate students), or
- the Chair of a department, or

- the Assistant Dean for Academic Affairs in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences (for faculty), or
- the Assistant Dean of Human Resources in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

In most cases, difficulties can be resolved informally. In others, one may seek disciplinary action through the Dean of the Faculty or through screening and hearing panels convened to hear charges of “grave misconduct,” identified in the University statutes as grounds for termination of employment (including deprivation of tenure). Any member of the FAS community who believes he or she has been sexually harassed is encouraged to bring the matter to the attention of an appropriate officer. Please note that members of the Harvard Union of Clerical and Technical Workers (HUCTW) are covered by the sexual harassment policies agreed to in the collective bargaining agreement and described in the Personnel Manual. For union members these policies take precedence over the policies governing other members of the University community.

The Commission of Inquiry

Any student, faculty member, or administrative officer who has a complaint or an inquiry may address it to the Commission of Inquiry, University Hall, Ground Floor (617-495-4426). The Commission will then direct the complaint or query to the appropriate agency of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. When such an agency does not exist, the Commission will attempt to aid in resolving the matter. The Commission is sometimes instrumental in establishing a new agency for handling recurrent issues. Although the Commission has no power to make rulings, it can play an advocacy role in pressing for the resolution of issues.

Ordinarily, the Commission reports to the community on the matters which come before it and, in so doing, attempts to keep the community informed about factual background material and the resolution of matters of community concern.

Human Subject Research

University regulations and federal rules require advance review and approval of most human subject research. Any living person from or about whom information is collected for a scholarly study is deemed a “research subject”—the term is not limited only to those subjects involved in clinical or laboratory studies. Faculty and students contemplating a research project involving humans as subjects, whether or not the work is externally funded and regardless of the area of academic discipline, should ascertain whether the project requires review.

Committee on the Use of Human Subjects

Research Officers:

Jane Calhoun, Science Center 128 (617-495-5459), jcalhoun@fas

Ken Carson, Science Center 107a (617-495-9829), kcarson@fas

Elisabeth Parrott, Science Center 127 (617-496-6535), eparrott@fas

Protocol Coordinator: Emiko Saito, Science Center 117c (617-496-2618), esaito@fas

The Standing Committee on the Use of Human Subjects in Research, the Faculty of Arts and Sciences’ federally mandated Institutional Review Board, is responsible for reviewing proposed studies. Applications should be submitted two weeks prior to Committee meetings, which are held monthly throughout the academic year. Judging from the information provided on the application, the Committee determines whether the proposed procedures will adequately safeguard the rights and welfare of the subjects. The Committee also aims to insure the appro-appropriate recruiting practices, permissions, and student time commitments. Some projects may not require full Committee review; others may be exempt from review altogether. Students planning research projects should contact a Committee research officer to determine whether review is required. Forms, meeting schedule, human subjects training, and reference material are available at www.fas.harvard.edu/~research/HumSub.html.

Research Involving Animal Subjects
www.fas.harvard.edu/~research/Animals.html

The Office of Animal Resources is responsible for the health and well-being of all vertebrate animals used in research and teaching in the FAS. All individuals using animals in research and/or teaching must complete a course entitled “The Humane Care of Animals in Research/Teaching.” This course is offered twice a year. It acquaints the participants with Harvard policies as well as federal, state, and city of Cambridge regulations regarding the use of animals.

All members of the Harvard community have a responsibility to report instances of mistreatment of animals or non-compliance with animal use guidelines. To report the mistreatment of vertebrate animals in research or teaching at Harvard, contact the Director of the Office of Animal Resources, Arthur Lage, D.V.M. (617-432-1289).

Course Administration

The Course Catalog

The course catalog for the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Courses of Instruction, lists both graduate and undergraduate courses and is published annually in August. An up-to-date version of the catalog is posted at www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu.

The Office of the Registrar compiles and publishes Courses of Instruction by gathering the information from department, division, and committee offices (not individual instructors) as well as the Dean's office. All course changes must be brought to the attention of the department's catalog coordinator and be approved by the department Chair.

Course information published in the catalog becomes the official basis for the Registrar's records; it affects classroom assignments, examination schedules, and the release of course lists and grade sheets. For this reason it is extremely important that departments and committees notify the course manager in the Office of the Registrar of any changes—especially changes of instructor or meeting time—regardless of when they occur in the academic year. Moreover, complete and up-to-date course information enables the Registrar to carry out Faculty policy regarding simultaneous course enrollment, as well as to locate individual students in an emergency.

Points to Consider When Creating or Modifying a Course

Courses are numbered according to the following scheme:

|----------------------|--|
| 1–99 or 910–999 | Primarily for Undergraduates |
| 100–199 or 1000–1999 | For Undergraduates and Graduates |
| 200–299 or 2000–2999 | Primarily for Graduates |
| 300–399 or 3000–3999 | Graduate Courses of Reading and Research |

- Courses may have only one number and may be listed in full by only one department, division, or committee. Moreover, as part of the process of creating or modifying a course, faculty members should consult with the appropriate departmental curriculum committee.
- Course titles appear on student transcripts, which have space for only 32 characters. For this reason, course titles should be limited to 32 characters. Overlong titles will be shortened to 32 characters by the course manager.
- Course descriptions are limited to 75 words for undergraduate (100-level) courses and to 35 words for graduate (200-level) courses. Overlong descriptions will be edited by the course manager.
- Courses listed but not offered in the current academic year are designated by enclosing the course number and title in brackets. Courses may not be bracketed for more than two consecutive years and must indicate when they will next be given.
- An asterisk (*) preceding the course title indicates that a student must have the instructor's approval to enroll in the course. (The student's study card must be signed by the instructor.) All tutorials and 300/3000-level courses must carry an asterisk.
- A meeting time must be printed for each course except tutorials, laboratory sessions, and section meetings. Course meeting times that do not conform to the guidelines set out on page 27 will not be printed in Courses of Instruction.
- To avoid problems with cross-registration, courses that are jointly offered with another Harvard Faculty must carry that information in a Note.

Special Types of Courses

Seminars, Proseminars, and Conference Courses

The following distinctions reflect long-standing Harvard tradition and are offered as basic guidelines.

A seminar tends to focus on more advanced and/or specific research topics. It has few, if any, lectures; usually limits enrollment to 12 to 15 students; and emphasizes student presentations, papers, and research.

A proseminar is a graduate course usually taken to obtain appropriate background in a subject or area in preparation for a more advanced seminar.

A conference course places more emphasis on discussion than research. It usually has an enrollment of about 25 students (35 maximum); meets once a week for 2–3 hours; and incorporates lectures, as well as student papers and research.

In general, seminars and conference courses are open to advanced undergraduates as well as graduate students. Ordinarily, they do not have final examinations, nor do they qualify for teaching fellows.

Tutorial Instruction (Undergraduates Only)

Tutorials are opportunities for students to participate in small group or one-on-one instruction in their concentrations. They are generally characterized by their centrality in the concentration curriculum, by their sequencing, and by their emphasis on methodology and academic skills.

All full-time faculty members are ordinarily expected to participate in the tutorial programs of the concentrations with which they are affiliated. Participation may involve individual or group tutorials, special seminars, or the direction of senior theses or projects. Although faculty-taught individual tutorials or group tutorials are ideal in many subject areas, departmental resources may be insufficient to accommodate these goals. When a tutorial is conducted by a teaching fellow, a designated faculty member should have ultimate responsibility, and that faculty member should oversee reading lists, discussion topics, and paper topics. From time to time, faculty members should participate in the tutorials for which they have accepted responsibility. (See also Responsibility for Instruction on page 14 and Responsibility for Evaluation on page 15.)

Supervised Reading and Research Courses

Undergraduates interested in supervised reading and research may enroll in courses offered by many departments under the designation of 91 or 910. Such courses are not Independent Study but regular courses with weekly or biweekly meeting times agreed upon by the instructor and student. Students enrolled in Reading and Research courses are expected to complete course work under supervision and not independently. Instructors of such courses must hold a teaching appointment and may not be teaching fellows or teaching assistants. (See also Responsibility for Instruction on page 14 and Independent Study on page 26.)

Graduate students enrolled in Reading and Research courses (300-level courses) do not receive letter grades but are graded SAT/UNS. Undergraduates may not enroll in courses numbered in the 300s or 3000s. However, Advanced Standing students in their fourth year of residence who are candidates for the master's degree may enroll in such courses with the instructor's permission. (See also Undergraduates in Courses Designated "Primarily for Graduates" on page 34.)

Freshman and House Seminars

Freshman and House Seminars are offered under the general supervision of the Committee on Freshman Seminars (617-495-1523). Both are small, limited enrollment courses. The Freshman Seminars are designed to intensify the intellectual experience of incoming undergraduates by allowing them to work closely with Faculty members on topics of mutual interest. Freshman Seminars are graded SAT/UNS and enrollment is limited to the first two terms of students who enter as freshmen.

House Seminars are sponsored by the individual residential Houses and ordinarily are open to undergraduates only. These Seminars bring something new to the existing curriculum either in method of instruction, range and depth of subject matter, integration of practice and theory, or special responsiveness to students' needs. The instructor of a House Seminar has the option of assigning letter grades or using SAT/UNS, with the approval of the Committee on Freshman Seminars.

Independent Study (Undergraduates Only)

Independent Study is designed to provide credit for field research, academic study not available in regular course work, or practice or performance in the arts. It is not suitable for group instruction, paid work, or activities outside the competence or concern of one of Harvard's departments. Studying the financial accounting system of a business firm might be an appropriate project, but working in an accounting office to gain business experience would not by itself merit academic credit. Investigating child development through observation in a day care center could qualify, but simply tutoring an underprivileged child would not. Analyzing the organization of a political group might be a suitable subject, but organizing a political campaign would not alone suffice. In each case what distinguishes the suitable project is the application of analytical skills to the object of the Independent Study, not the intrinsic worthiness or instructiveness of the experience itself.

Any sophomore, junior, or senior whose previous record is satisfactory may petition to undertake Independent Study for non-letter-graded credit. A student may petition to take up to a total of four half-courses of Independent Study. Independent Study courses are subject to the same rules for dropping and withdrawing as any other course.

A petition to undertake Independent Study, obtained from a Resident Dean's Office, requires two signatures:

1. That of a qualified adviser (ordinarily a member of a Harvard Faculty) who must be an officer of the University and whose professional competence is appropriate for the subject area of the Independent Study. In those exceptional cases where the adviser is not a Faculty member—for example, a teaching fellow—the petition must also be supported by an appropriate academic department or unit.
2. That of the Allston Burr Resident Dean, which signifies that the proposal satisfies the guidelines and has been signed by the adviser. (Resident Deans will refer questions concerning guidelines to the Office of Academic Programs.)

The petition also requires an outline of the student's proposed project. It must be submitted to the Resident Dean for approval, ordinarily in the first week of the term. The adviser will assist the student in the development of a plan for Independent Study and provide guidance but not regular instruction. Independent Study does not imply formal instruction and should not be confused with tutorials or House Seminars or with directed or Supervised Reading and Research courses offered by several academic departments and committees. (Supervised Reading and Research courses are generally numbered 91 or 910 and normally receive letter grades.) A student enrolled in Independent Study must undertake to work independently. Classroom work and regular instruction are inadmissible.

The adviser will submit a midterm grade based on a preliminary written report by the student of his or her activities. At the beginning of the Reading Period, the student must submit to the adviser an analytical paper concerning the term's work. A simple description or report of the term's activities is not by itself adequate. In the case of artistic practice or performance, evidence of substantial accomplishment should be supplied in lieu of written work.

The granting of credit will be determined by the adviser. In those cases where the adviser is not a voting member of a Harvard Faculty, the Chair, Director of Undergraduate Studies, or Head Tutor of the department, or equivalent officer with voting membership in a Harvard Faculty, must review and approve the petition and the grade assigned by the adviser. Independent Study is graded "Pass" or "Fail." The adviser will submit a copy of the student's paper and a brief statement about his or her work for inclusion in the student's folder in the Resident Dean's office, ordinarily by the first day of the Examination Period.

Course Meeting Times

Traditionally, courses meet for three hours per week. Hour-long FAS courses are scheduled on the hour. One-and-one-half hour FAS courses are scheduled for 8:30, 10, 11:30 or 1 and only on Tuesdays and Thursdays. No course beginning before 1 pm should be longer than one hour on Monday, Wednesday, or Friday or longer than 1-1/2 hours on Tuesday or Thursday. Courses scheduled at non-compliant meeting times must be approved by the Registrar. Approved courses are required to meet in departmental space or in classrooms scheduled through offices other than the FAS Registrar.

Classes ordinarily begin five minutes after the announced meeting time, e.g., at 9:05 or 11:35. An instructor may refuse to permit students to enter the classroom after the class has begun. Instructors should end the course promptly at the announced meeting time, leaving the blackboards clear and the furniture properly configured. The five minutes allotted for transition is not reserved by either course. Instructors should exercise professional conduct when entering or vacating a classroom.

By Faculty vote, no class, committee or departmental meeting, tutorial, conference, examination, or other academic activity may be scheduled for the period set aside for regular Faculty meetings (Tuesdays, 4–5:30 pm). Exceptions to this rule may be granted only by the Dean of Harvard College (for courses below the 200- or 2000-level) or the Dean of the Graduate School (for courses at the 200- or 2000-level).

Holidays and Days Preceding and Following Holidays and Vacations

Classes should not be held on holidays or during vacations. By vote of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, instructors are expected to hold regular classes on the days preceding and following holidays and vacations. Students should not be excused from class on those days or allowed to transfer temporarily from one section to another to accommodate a longer holiday or vacation.

Courses Meeting Away from the University

Ordinarily, courses should be organized so that they meet only in their regularly-scheduled times, plus the additional times scheduled at the beginning of the term for sections and laboratories. In some cases, an instructor may wish to include a field trip or project that would take students away from the University on days when classes are normally held and, thereby, interfere with students' ability to attend other courses. In such cases, permission to include activities that will take students away from the University must be obtained before the course may be listed in the catalog. Instructors must consult with the Office of Academic Programs about courses below the 200- or 2000-level and with the Dean of the Graduate School about courses at the 200- or 2000-level. Ordinarily, instructors should plan no more than one class day away from the University in any given week and never more than five class days during the term, or ten days total including weekends. In all cases, the students' obligations to other courses meeting at their regularly-scheduled times must have priority over course requirements that take students away from the University. Instructors must announce at the beginning of a course any requirements that would take students away from the University so that students may consider these requirements when choosing their courses.

Reading Period

At the end of each term, a period of eleven or twelve days prior to the start of final examinations is designated as the Reading Period. During this period, faculty members may choose not to meet with their students for formal classes. Those who exercise this option often do so to allow students to work independently, exploring special topics or integrating the material covered in the course. Students often use this time to complete term papers that draw on the work of the term and to re-examine course material in order to integrate the various strands of a course in preparation for the final examination or other final exercise. Those courses that have approved substitutions should schedule these activities during the Reading Period but need to be mindful of students' obligations to other courses, some of which may continue to meet during this time. All substitutions are due no later than the last day of Reading Period. Faculty legislation on Reading Period emphasizes that the suspension of lectures should involve no diminution in the total work required in courses, but also that new reading assignments for this period may not be excessive and that new material introduced through Reading Period assignments should cover special topics for investigation or further development, rather than important parts of the course as a whole.

Many courses continue to meet on their regular schedules during much of the Reading Period. Even in these cases, most instructors suspend classes during the last two weekdays of the Reading Period to allow students a few days of uninterrupted preparation before the start of final examinations. It is generally expected that review sessions will take place during the Reading Period.

Instructors should specify their plans and expectations for the Reading Period on the course syllabus or during the early meetings of the term so that students may take this into account as they plan their work for the term.

Whether or not a class meets during the Reading Period, that time is an integral part of the term. Both instructors and students are expected to remain in the immediate vicinity of Cambridge throughout this period.

Examination Period

Following the Reading Period at each term's end, there is an Examination Period. No course assignments, trips, or special events should be scheduled by instructors during the Examination Period. Like the Reading Period, Examination Period is considered part of the term, and instructors are expected to be in residence throughout. At the end of the term, instructors should not leave the vicinity of Cambridge before submitting their grade sheets. See also Final and Midyear Examinations, pages 43–49.

Classrooms

Classroom assignments for courses are coordinated between academic departments and scheduling offices.

Instructors should immediately contact their department if the meeting time changes from the original listing in the Courses of Instruction catalog or when a change in location occurs after the initial classroom assignment has been determined.

To announce course meeting times and locations, the FAS Office of the Registrar produces a Course Meetings Location Report. This report is posted to the Registrar's website (www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu) prior to the start of each term: September 1st for the fall term; January 15th for the spring term.

To make audio-visual equipment or service requests, instructors should contact Media and Technology Services (see Department of Instructional Media Services on page 63).

After-hour emergencies and problems with the temperature or ventilation of classrooms should be referred to the University Operations Center (617-495-5560). Classroom maintenance or repair requests should be referred to your department administrator, to Harvard Yard Operations (617-495-8842), or to the appropriate building manager.

FAS Classrooms Office

20 Garden Street, 5
classrms@fas, (617-495-1541)
www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu

The FAS Classrooms Office schedules about one-third of the classrooms in the FAS room inventory. The remaining classrooms are scheduled in the departments, centers, and houses.

Initial classroom assignments by the FAS Classrooms Office are made after considering a number of factors including instructional requirements, enrollment history, accessibility, special circumstances, and room availability at the time of assignment. Faculty members requesting classroom space scheduled by the FAS Classrooms Office have the opportunity to indicate their classroom needs for their courses and course-related events on forms that are distributed in May (for the fall term) and October (for the spring term). The FAS Classrooms Office encourages instructors to include requests for course-related events—films, lectures, midterm examinations—at this time. If another classroom is needed for midterm or hour exams, you may request an additional room so that students can be placed reasonably far apart and have writing tablets. Classroom questions and requests may be emailed to the FAS Classrooms Office. Departmental classroom assignments should be confirmed with departmental schedulers.

Courses and sections have their assigned classrooms reserved from the first day of the term through the end of the Reading Period. During the Examination Period, all classrooms are reserved for Final Exams. Classrooms are not reserved during University holidays and recesses.

Classroom Reassignment: Due to the fluctuation of enrollment during the shopping period, the FAS Classrooms Office typically does not reassign classrooms until after Study Card Day when initial enrollment figures are more accurate. However, if, after the first day of classes, there seems to be an urgent need to change room assignments, please contact the FAS Classrooms Office immediately (617-495-1541). As a reminder, room assignments are subject to change due to enrollment numbers or other pedagogical needs.

Discussion Sections: Instructors should direct their Head Teaching Fellows to the FAS Registrar's website www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu to access "Guidelines for Requesting Section Space" and a blank classroom request form. Classrooms for discussion sections are reserved on a first come, first serve basis.

Fall/Repeat Spring and Full-Year Courses: For all full year and fall/repeat spring courses that have the same meeting day and time for the spring term as they have in the current fall term, the FAS Classrooms Office anticipates being able to assign the same classroom. Departmental classroom assignments should be confirmed with departmental schedulers.

Reading Period: A course is scheduled into a classroom from the first day of the term through the end of Reading Period. In order to guarantee space for all current course offerings, it is recommended that course and section classroom assignments are utilized during the Reading Period for review sessions.

Examination Period: During the final Examination Period, all classrooms are reserved for the office of Final Examinations. After the final examination schedule is set, limited classroom space may become available for review sessions.

Visitor's Guide to Larger Lectures: Each term, the FAS Office of the Registrar publishes the Visitor's Guide to Larger Lectures. Copies of this guide are made available to visiting prospective students and their parents. Any instructor who does not wish to have his or her course listed in the guide should contact the FAS Classrooms Office no later than Study Card Day.

Course Materials/Syllabi

It is helpful to have a complete course syllabus posted and available early in the term and preferably before the first meeting of a class so that students can make efficient use of the shopping period with minimal disruption to classes. Syllabi can be distributed electronically to students on campus through the FAS network on a course website. To provide on-line access to your syllabus, please call the Faculty and Staff Support Line at (617-496-2727) and specify that you are interested in instructional support. To control the escalating cost of reproducing coursepacks and sourcebooks, instructors are encouraged to determine whether the course readings they assign are available electronically from the Harvard libraries, and if they are, to link to them from course websites. For information on how to include links from your syllabus/course web page directly to readings available in electronic format, please contact your department's Library Liaison or refer to Linking to Harvard Library E-Resources (hcl.harvard.edu/research/guides/deeplinking) on the HCL website. The Resources for Instructors page (hcl.harvard.edu/research/for_instructors/index.html) contains additional useful information for instructors.

The syllabus should include contact information and office hours for teaching staff, a reading list, dates of hour/midterm exams, due dates for papers or other assignments, plans and expectations for Reading Period, course policy with respect to late work and makeup hour exams, and the basis on which the course grade will be awarded. It should also include a clear statement about plagiarism and collaboration (see also page 37). (In selecting the dates for hour exams and the midterm examination, as well as for papers and other assignments, instructors should consult the information on religious holidays at www.interfaithcalendar.org.) Instructors noting the possible dates of the course's final examination on the syllabus should also note on the syllabus that these dates are tentative until the final examination schedule is set later in the term. In courses designed for undergraduates it is very desirable for students to receive an evaluation on at least one course assignment before the seventh Monday of the term, the last day on which undergraduates may withdraw from a course. Any limitations on the credit earned by passing the course—e.g., a full year course may not be divisible at midyear for half course credit; a tutorial may be non-credit—should be made clear as part of the presentation of the course.

No substantial changes in the work load or calendar of a course should be made after the Study Card Day each term.

Course Lists

Approximately one day after the due date for study cards, instructors will be able to view their course lists via their web-based portal pages at my.harvard.edu. After entering your HUID and Personal Identification Number (PIN) at the PIN authentication page, your portal page will appear. (If you have forgotten your PIN, you can request a new one at the Harvard University PIN website at www.pin1.harvard.edu.) Look for a box in the right-hand column entitled, "FAS Course Enrollment Lists." This tool contains a list of courses that you are teaching in the current term. For each course, there are links to view an enrollment list, generate a printable (PDF) list, or download enrollment data to Microsoft Excel. You can also view the photos of each student in your course. Please note that enrollment data are protected under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) of 1974 and are therefore not for distribution. Instructions are available in the Course Website Administrator's Handbook: icg.fas.harvard.edu/docs.

The on-line course lists are regularly updated. Only when a student's name appears on the course list or when the Office of the Registrar notifies the instructor of a late enrollment is a student officially enrolled in a course. Instructors should report to the Office of the Registrar any student (other than auditors) who attends class, but whose name does not appear on the course list. Instructors should also report any student (except those with the status of “withdrawn”) who has stopped attending class, but whose name appears on the course list. These reports should be directed to the Office of the Registrar at (617-495-4655) or (617-495-1519).

Course Fees

No course may charge undergraduates special fees for course participation or required activities. Departmental budgets are expected to cover the cost of films, laboratory equipment and other materials. The aim of this policy is to ensure that all courses are equally accessible to students regardless of their financial means.

Student Enrollment: Add, Drop, Withdraw

Students are allowed five weekdays at the beginning of the term to attend courses in which they are considering enrolling. After this “shopping period,” they officially enroll by filing study cards on which they have included their courses and gathered all the required instructor signatures (see below).

No undergraduate may drop or add a course or change grading status in a course after the fifth Monday of the term. Undergraduates have until the seventh Monday of the term to withdraw from a course. Any course that a student drops by the deadline is removed from the student’s transcript. If a student withdraws from a course, that course remains on the transcript with the notation “WD.” Deadlines for graduate students are indicated in the Academic Calendar on pages 5-12.

Instructor’s Signature on Study Cards and Petitions

The Office of the Registrar will not accept any study card that lacks a required signature. The instructor’s signature must be obtained for all undergraduate enrollments in graduate-level courses and for those that require the permission of the instructor, as indicated by an asterisk in Courses of Instruction. Study cards filed after the prescribed deadline must contain the instructor’s signature for every course listed.

Undergraduates adding a course after the study card is filed or changing grading status to Pass/Fail must obtain the signature of the course head, but the signature is not required for dropping or withdrawing from a course. For graduate students, the instructor’s permission is required for adding or withdrawing from a course by petition and is not required for dropping a course.

Instructors may not delegate their responsibility for signing study cards, change-of-course petitions, or grade sheets. Instructors are therefore asked to be available to students to discuss their course enrollment status and, when necessary, to sign the required petitions.

Limiting Enrollment in Courses at the 100- or 1000-Level and Below

As a general principle, students should be able to study the topics they want and for which they have the appropriate background, with the exception that concentration tutorials, including junior seminar programs, are ordinarily limited to concentrators. Nevertheless, there may be courses in which enrollment must be limited because of resource constraints or special instructional needs. The decision to limit enrollment for either or both of these reasons, as well as decisions about appropriate prerequisites, should be made by the instructional unit’s curriculum committee. The committee should be mindful of the general principle stated above, perhaps creating other venues where interested students can study the material in question.

When enrollment in a non-tutorial course is to be limited, the reason for the limitation should be reported to the Office of Academic Programs and the enrollment ceiling should be noted in the course catalog. The criteria for selecting among appropriately-qualified students for space in limited enrollment courses should be based on the curricular needs and interests of the students and on whether a student will have other opportunities to take the course. Selection on the basis of other criteria is inappropriate.

Enrollment of Non-FAS Students

Cross-Registration

Students cross-registering from other Faculties or other institutions are allowed to enroll in FAS courses if they have obtained the instructor's permission and submitted a signed petition to the Office of the Registrar (20 Garden Street). Such students are subject to all of the FAS regulations and deadlines, including the examination schedule, and are graded according to the FAS system. The Pass/Fail option is not available to cross-registered students.

Employees (Tuition Assistance Plan)

Employees of Harvard University may enroll in FAS courses through the Tuition Assistance Plan (TAP) administered by the Office of Human Resources. Employees are subject to all of the FAS regulations and deadlines, including the examination schedule, and are graded according to the FAS system. Employees are permitted to add or change a course once TAP and enrollment forms have been filed with the Office of the Registrar (20 Garden Street) by the appropriate deadlines. The Pass/Fail option is not available to TAP students.

Auditing

Auditors are allowed in courses offered by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences only with an instructor's permission. The following may be admitted as auditors: students enrolled in any Faculty of the University, individuals holding teaching appointments in the FAS, and their spouses. No official record is maintained for auditors.

Simultaneous Enrollment/Courses with Overlapping Meeting Times

The Faculty believes that full participation in a classroom setting is essential. Therefore, a student may not enroll in courses that meet at the same time or overlapping times. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that there is no overlap in the meeting times of his or her courses. Exceptions to this rule may be granted only by the Administrative Board and will be considered only if the instructors in both overlapping courses agree and only in one or more of the following circumstances:

1. When the head of the course where class time is being missed and the person(s) providing the instruction during the regular class meeting agree to provide hour-for-hour direct and personal compensatory instruction. Availability during regular office hours or time with a different person does not satisfy the requirement for direct and personal contact.
2. When instruction in one of the courses is available on videotape, provided that (1) the course head agrees that the videotapes may be used for this purpose; (2) the lectures that are videotaped ordinarily do not provide opportunities for classroom discussion; (3) the videotapes will be available in a timely fashion so that they can be viewed before the next class period; (4) the student will miss attending part or all of no more than 1/3 of the instructional periods in the course (not including sections or labs.) [N.B. if a student will miss any part of a day's lecture, it is as though he or she will miss all of it]; and (5) the instructor in the course in which the lectures are videotaped agrees to offer any hour examinations or other in-class exercises at a time that will not preclude the student from attending the second course. In those courses that do not use the blackboard or other visual aids, course-provided audiotapes may be substituted for videotapes.

3. When a senior can meet degree requirements only by taking the two particular courses in question and will have no other opportunity to enroll in the courses before graduation. In such circumstances, the Administrative Board may approve reasonable accommodations in consultation with the instructors of the courses involved.

Undergraduates in Courses Designated “Primarily for Graduates”

Courses numbered in the 200s or 2000s (Primarily for Graduates) may be taken by undergraduates only with the permission of the instructor, as indicated by the instructor's signature on the study card. Undergraduates may not enroll in courses numbered in the 300s or 3000s (Graduate Courses of Reading and Research). The only exceptions to the latter rule are fourth-year Advanced Standing students who are candidates for the master's degree and who may enroll in such upper-level courses with the instructor's permission.

Pass/Fail Grading Status (Undergraduates Only)

In 1967 the Faculty extended the use of Pass/Fail in order to permit students to enrich their educational experience by enrolling in courses they might otherwise avoid because of material that was too advanced or too unfamiliar. Consequently, with an instructor's permission and signature on the study card any undergraduate may enroll in a course on a Pass/Fail rather than a letter-graded basis. After the fifth Monday of the term students are not allowed to add Pass/Fail courses or to change their grading status in courses from or to Pass/Fail. Students enrolled in courses on a Pass/Fail basis are so identified on the course lists and grade sheets sent to instructors.

Instructors may not request that students enroll in a course on a Pass/Fail basis. The Pass/Fail option is not available to graduate, cross-registered, or TAP students.

Student Attendance

All students are expected to attend classes regularly. Absence from academic exercises for whatever reason, including representing the College in extracurricular and athletic activities, does not relieve a student from responsibility for any part of the work required by the course during the period of absence. Students who, by their classroom absence, neglect work in a course may be excluded from the course (see Exclusion on page 59).

Students should not leave the Cambridge vicinity during Reading Periods or Examination Periods or for an extended time during the term without the permission of their Resident Dean.

Storm and Emergency Conditions

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences rarely cancels classes due to weather. However, faculty and section leaders who commute should not be expected to put themselves in danger during serious storms, and may choose to cancel their individual classes. Because the Faculty rarely cancels classes, it is important that course staff inform students at the start of the term of the procedures for learning of class meetings that will be canceled. Similarly, it is important that the course staff provide students with instructions on how to inform instructional staff of planned absences. Instructors might find the following information helpful in establishing storm and emergency procedures for their courses:

- For the most part, undergraduate students are in residence and are expected to attend classes. Undergraduate students who decide that they cannot make it to class should be able to find in their course materials instructions on how to inform the course's instructional staff of absences from class. For example, some courses request that the student inform the instructor or the teaching fellow of the planned absence by email or by telephone.
- Similarly, students should be able to find instructions in the course materials that indicate how the instructional staff would inform students of the cancellation of a class or section meeting. For example, courses might inform students of the cancellation via an announcement posted at the course's home page on the web, via an e-mail to the class attendees, or by leaving a message on the voice mail system of a centralized departmental telephone.
- FAS offices and academic departments will be open depending on staff availability and whether there are critical functions in progress. Call the central number for that office before going there.
- Final examinations and make-up examinations are rarely cancelled by the College and students should report to their exam rooms on time.
- On the very rare occasion when FAS decides to cancel classes, an announcement of the cancellation will be posted at the following urls: www.college.harvard.edu, my.harvard.edu, and www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu.

Restricting Attendance

With the exception of classes held prior to the filing of study cards, when any registered student may attend a class, ordinarily only students enrolled in a course and auditors who have been given specific permission by the instructor may attend course meetings. From time to time, instructors may permit other guests, such as colleagues, parents, alumnae/i, or prospective students, to attend individual class meetings; however, instructors are always free to restrict attendance at a class meeting or meetings to regularly enrolled students and authorized auditors. Each term the Registrar's Office publishes the Visitor's Guide to Larger Lectures. Copies of this guide are made available to visiting prospective students and their parents through the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid. Any instructor who does not wish to have his or her course listed in the guide should contact the Classrooms Office at (617-495-1541) no later than Study Card Day.

Date for Submission of Senior Theses and General Examinations

The dates for submission of undergraduate senior theses and for concentration general examinations are set by the individual concentrations but must be early enough to enable the concentration to make its degree recommendations available to the Office of the Registrar during the first week of the Examination Period.

The dates for required language and general examinations for graduate students are set by the departments.

Students should be informed of these dates well in advance of the examination.

Hour and Midterm Examinations

The administration of hour and midterm examinations is the responsibility of the instructor; these exams should normally be scheduled during regular class meeting times. In cases where hour and midterm examinations must be given outside regular class meeting times the course head must offer a makeup examination for documented academic conflicts. Ordinarily, the Office of the Registrar has no role in the administration of hour or midterm examinations.

Instructors are required by law to offer makeup examinations to students who are absent from hour and midterm examinations for the observance of a religious holiday. Instructors are not required to offer makeup examinations to students who are absent from hour and midterm examinations for other reasons. If an instructor is satisfied that the absence is necessary and that omitting a grade for the missed hour or midterm examination will not affect the student's course grade, final evaluation of the student's work in the course may be determined from the remainder of the course work. The instructor may also elect to give a makeup examination. The responsibility for such decisions rests with the instructor only and not with the Dean's Office or the Administrative Board. Instructors may also decide whether to require the attendance of graduate students at hour and midterm examinations.

Although instructors are obligated to offer makeup examinations only in the case of absence for the observance of a religious holiday, students who have obtained proper Harvard University Health Services (HUHS) documentation of illness may not be penalized for their absence from hour and midterm examinations. The appropriate form must be signed by a HUHS medical professional and given to the student's Resident Dean who will write the student a letter that acknowledges receipt of the HUHS form. This letter may be presented to the instructor as certification of the student's illness.

Examination Booklets

Examination booklets for hour or midterm examinations may be obtained from Charles Botosh, Jr., in Science Center 125 (617-495-5094). A Harvard officer or faculty identification card must be shown to receive them.

Athletic Events

The Department of Athletics is aware that midterm examinations are frequently given in the seventh or eighth weeks of the term, and it schedules few athletic contests away from Cambridge during that time. Sometimes the academic calendars of other institutions require that contests be scheduled in these periods, especially in the fall term. However, absence from academic exercises in order to represent the College in athletic activities does not relieve the student from responsibility for any part of the work required in the course during the period of the absence.

Absences for Religious Holidays

A student who is absent from an hour or midterm examination as a consequence of his or her religious belief "shall be provided with an opportunity to make up such examination..." (Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 151C, Sec. 2B). It is therefore recommended that prior to setting the dates for such exercises or examinations course heads ask members of their classes for the dates on which they will be absent from class because of a conflict with religious holidays that they will be observing. It is the responsibility of the students concerned to provide that information promptly when so requested. If conflicts are unavoidable, students who are absent from hour or midterm examinations for religious reasons shall be offered an opportunity to make up the work, without penalty, unless it can be demonstrated that such an opportunity would constitute an "unreasonable burden" on the faculty. Information on religious holidays can be found at www.interfaithcalendar.org.

Papers and Other Written Assignments

One or more papers or other written assignments (e.g., problem sets, laboratory reports) are often included as part of the work required of students in their courses. Most faculty have found that a series of graduated writing assignments often work better than a single term paper, particularly in courses designed to introduce students to a new field or a particular mode of inquiry. The feedback that students receive on work completed early in the term helps to clarify what is expected in written assignments, and later assignments provide students the opportunity to demonstrate what they have learned from the earlier comments.

The nature and number of written assignments and their due dates should be included on the course syllabus. All written work must be due by the last day of the Reading Period, though instructors may grant individual undergraduates an extension of time for medical reasons and other special circumstances up to the end of the Examination Period, and may grant graduate students an extension of time until the end of the next regular term. (See Late Work and Extension of Time for Course Work on page 37.)

Plagiarism

Any material submitted to meet course requirements—homework assignments, papers, projects, examinations—is expected to be a student’s own work. During the first week of freshman year the importance of correct citation is stressed, and in the required first-year writing course, Expository Writing, undergraduates are urged to take great care in distinguishing their own ideas and thoughts from information and analysis derived from sources. Although instructors are encouraged to take every opportunity to reinforce and develop these lessons, the final responsibility for knowing proper forms of citation rests with students.

In cases of suspected plagiarism by an undergraduate student, please contact the Secretary of the Administrative Board. In cases of suspected plagiarism by a graduate student, please contact the GSAS associate dean for student affairs.

Collaboration

It is essential that instructors set out carefully in writing and at the outset of a course or course assignment the extent of permissible student collaboration in the preparation of papers, computer programs, or examinations. Students must assume that collaboration in the completion of assignments is prohibited unless explicitly permitted by the instructor. Students are expected to acknowledge any collaboration and its extent in all submitted work.

Dual Submission

Papers and other work should normally be submitted to only one course. Any student who wishes to submit to another course the same or similar work used in a previous course must obtain the prior written permission of the instructor. If a student wishes to submit the same or similar work to more than one course during the same term, the prior written permission of all of the instructors involved must be obtained. A student who submits the same or similar work to more than one course without such prior permission will ordinarily be required to withdraw from the College or from GSAS.

Late Work and Extension of Time for Course Work

Undergraduates

Instructors have the authority to grant undergraduates an extension of time for medical reasons and other special circumstances up to the end of the Examination Period. Ordinarily, students requesting an extension of time to complete course work must have received the consent of the instructor before the midyear or final examination or before the final meeting of a course in which there is no midyear or final examination.

In deciding the length of an extension granted for medical reasons, the head of the course should apply the principle used by the Administrative Board when it votes extensions beyond the Examination Period: Extensions are granted for a period commensurate with the time missed during an illness, without penalty. Questions about an appropriate extension for an individual undergraduate may be addressed to the student's Resident Dean.

If a student submits work after a grade has been filed with the Registrar but before the end of the Examination Period, and if acceptance of that late work results in a grade change, the instructor should submit a grade change request to either the Office of Academic Programs (for an undergraduate) or the Dean of the Graduate School (for a graduate student), c/o The Registrar, 20 Garden Street (617-495-1546). (See Changes in Grades on page 56.)

An extension of time to complete course work beyond the end of the Examination Period can be granted to an undergraduate only by vote of the Administrative Board of Harvard College and only in exceptional circumstances. Instructors may not accept work from an undergraduate after the end of the Examination Period without the explicit authorization of the Administrative Board.

Graduate Students

Instructors may grant graduate students an extension of time until the end of the next regular term. However, such extensions of time for completion of course work must be granted before the assignment of the course grade.

Midterm Grades for Undergraduates

Instructors teaching an undergraduate course (courses below the 200-level) are asked to report to the Office of the Registrar midterm grades based on students' performance in the course up to that point in the term, and to comment on the performance of undergraduates whose midterm course grade is D+ or lower. Fall midterm grades are due on Friday, November 3; spring midterm grades are due on Friday, March 16. (See pages 53-55 for due dates for final grades.)

These grades are used only for advising and counseling purposes and need not be letter grades (SAT/UNS may be more appropriate). They are extremely important for identifying students who may be facing any of a wide range of difficulties. Instructors are also asked to cooperate with the Resident Deans of Freshmen and the Allston Burr Resident Deans regarding inquiries that they may make about the status of individual students.

March grades in full courses extending from September to May should reflect the student's current standing for the spring term. At the same time, instructors should report students whose cumulative grade for the entire year is unsatisfactory.

Hiring, Training, and Supervision of Instructional Support Staff

In many courses the instruction done by supervised teaching staff is an important part of the undergraduate educational process, as well as an important aspect of the training of graduate students. Departments and individual instructors have developed successful strategies that encourage and protect a high standard of teaching by supervised teachers. These local strategies have been reinforced by guidelines developed by the Committee on Undergraduate Education and the Committee on Graduate Education and endorsed by the Faculty Council.

Categories of Instructional Support Staff

Teaching fellows are candidates for advanced degrees and are registered as students at Harvard, ordinarily in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. They serve as section leaders, tutors, and laboratory leaders, but always under the supervision of instructors who hold Faculty-level teaching appointments in the FAS or another Harvard Faculty. (See Responsibility for Evaluation on page 15 for the appropriate role of teaching fellows in the grading of students.)

Teaching assistants engage in the same kinds of supervised instruction as teaching fellows but are not enrolled as candidates for an advanced degree in any department of the University. Ordinarily, teaching assistants will have received the AB before the appointment begins.

Undergraduate course assistants are currently registered Harvard undergraduates who provide the same kinds of supervised instruction as teaching fellows and teaching assistants. Course assistants ordinarily assist only in mathematics, science, and computer science courses. (Again, see Responsibility for Evaluation on page 15 for the appropriate role of course assistants in the grading of students.)

In accordance with the Faculty's own policy, course heads should consider qualified GSAS students for teaching positions before hiring non-GSAS candidates.

Teaching Fellow Appointment Guidelines

The Committee on Graduate Education and the Faculty Council have adopted the following general guidelines for the Teaching Fellow appointment process in the humanities and social sciences:

1. Notification of Guaranteed Teaching Fellow Positions: On the basis of enrollment histories, the Office of Academic Programs in Harvard College will designate a certain number of guaranteed Teaching Fellow positions for eligible departmental courses for both terms of the coming academic year. The number of guaranteed teaching positions will be finalized and sent to Department Chairs and Directors of Graduate Studies in early May. Guaranteed positions will be honored regardless of final course enrollments. Additional appointments may be made after final enrollments are known. Information on guaranteed positions should be made available to eligible graduate students as early in May as possible.
2. Application Period: Departments should accept applications for Teaching Fellow positions for several weeks in May, to ensure the broadest possible applicant pool before a decision is made. To avoid financial inequities, final decisions should involve consultation between the course head and the Chair or Director of Graduate Studies, or other designated member of the Department or program.
3. Hiring Criteria and Timetable: The criteria for appointing Teaching Fellows should attempt to balance preparation, teaching experience, and financial need. Preference for Teaching Fellow appointments should be given to those students for whom a guarantee was offered at admission. Ordinarily these are students in the G-3 and G-4 years. After those students with Teaching Fellow guarantees have been accommodated, departments should consider all other qualified applicants from within the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and special attention should be paid to qualified applicants from related departments and disciplines before a decision is made.

Guaranteed Teaching Fellow assignments should be made by the end of May. Written notification should be provided to each student making explicit the guaranteed nature of the appointment (see note below), as well as expectations for training and orientation. Applicants who are not chosen for Teaching Fellow assignments should be informed in writing at the same time so that they can make alternative arrangements for financial support before the academic year begins.

A list of all Teaching Fellow appointments should be sent to the Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and to the Office of Academic Programs in Harvard College. Guaranteed positions cannot be honored unless this list is submitted. If a student who has been offered a guaranteed position receives funding from another source or for other reasons declines the opportunity, that guaranteed position may be offered to another GSAS student after direct consultation with GSAS.

An important note on teaching “guarantees”: As an integral part of their graduate funding packages, G-3 and G-4 students in the Humanities and Social Sciences are ordinarily guaranteed 2/5 teaching each term; meeting this guarantee should be seen as a cooperative endeavor between the student and the department. The financial commitment for all pre-approved teaching assignments will be honored, despite final enrollments. However, departments may move teaching fellows from a course that is under-enrolled to one that is over-subscribed, within certain limits. Reassignments should be made on the basis of the graduate student’s prior indication of courses or areas in which he or she is prepared to teach. Departments should offer reassignments in ways that will minimize the number of teaching fellows with multiple preparations. If no reassignment is possible, the financial commitment will be honored, even if no instructional support is needed in the course. In this case, the TF should perform meaningful work for the department or committee, preferably in support of undergraduate instruction. Finally, be aware that immigration regulations limit the employment of international students to twenty hours per week while school is in session. This is equivalent to a half-time (fifty percent) appointment, or two and a half fifths teaching.

For additional information about Teaching Fellow appointments, please refer to the GSAS Teaching Fellows’ Handbook (www.gsas.harvard.edu/academic/teaching.html).

Training and Supervision of Instructional Support Staff

A number of principles have been formulated to assist departments in the training and supervision of instructional support staff.

Departments should develop regular procedures for screening and training instructional support staff as well as routine methods of supervising and monitoring their performance. Not only do such practices help to maintain good standards, but they also encourage graduate students, in particular, to improve their teaching skills. Student teaching should be a rewarding opportunity rather than an automatic step in graduate education.

The Faculty Council has adopted the following guidelines for the training and preparation of first-time instructional support staff:

1. All departments and instructional programs must develop plans for preparing and orienting first-time instructional support staff in the pedagogical skills that will allow them to fulfill their teaching obligations. Orientation in issues of appropriate professional conduct (see page 15) should also be provided. These plans should be approved by the Office of Academic Programs.

Plans should provide for practice teaching or other orientation in teaching methods at or before the start of employment of those without prior teaching experience and should provide for observation and appraisal of performance, at least for the first term of employment.

2. Plans must include a mechanism for screening prospective international instructional support staff (more specifically, those for whom English is not the native language and who have not received a degree from an English-speaking institution) for competence in spoken English before they are approved to teach, and in the case of assistants who will be responsible for evaluating written work, screening for competence in written English as well.

The Bok Center has developed a program for language screening and training. Departments may choose to use that central program or to develop their own mechanisms.

3. Individual course heads remain responsible for the orientation, preparation, oversight, and evaluation of assistants in the execution of their specific course responsibilities.

Instructional support staff should be provided with structured teaching assignments. Generally, section teaching is more effective the more the instructor is involved. Regular, perhaps weekly, meetings with assistants to review course material, visits by the instructor to sections, and the teaching of a section by the instructor can be helpful. In certain departments, some or all of these forms of involvement are routinely expected. Departments may adjust the teaching credit given to Faculty members, if need be, to encourage their involvement in section teaching. An “instructional lunch fund” to contribute to weekly luncheon meetings with assistants is available from department administrators. The Derek Bok Center for Teaching and Learning encourages instructors and assistants to seek help in improving teaching quality (see page 61).

By vote of the Faculty on December 17, 1995, instructional support staff are expected to attend lectures of the courses in which they are employed unless in the judgment of the course head the nature of their work for the course does not depend upon their attendance at the lectures.

Departments should devise a record-keeping system on instructional support staff based on instructors’ reports on their performance. Such departmental monitoring can be used to reward outstanding teaching and to provide a solid basis upon which to recommend graduate students for future teaching jobs. At the same time, regular evaluation ensures that a poor teaching performance does not go unnoticed.

Special Considerations Concerning the Appointment of Undergraduate Course Assistants

Because special considerations enter into the appointment of undergraduates as course assistants, instructors should use the following procedure when screening prospective course assistants:

With a candidate’s written permission, an instructor should confirm with the student’s Allston Burr Resident Dean that the proposed candidate:

1. Has attained sophomore standing and is at least in the third term of residency.
2. Is not on probation.
3. Ordinarily, has a grade point average of 3.33 or better in the two previous terms.

Also, as undergraduates may fail to recognize the implications of serving in an instructional role, instructors should take special responsibility for initiating discussions about professional conduct, including the impropriety of amorous relationships with students and the importance of both equity and confidentiality.

Student Compensation and Credit for Course Work

It is inappropriate for a student to receive course credit for the same work for which he or she is financially compensated. Thus, an undergraduate course assistant may not receive academic credit in any form, including Independent Study and Supervised Reading and Research course credit, for courses with which he or she is assisting. Research for which a student receives a grant may inform their academic work. Research performed for other financial compensation may inform academic work in subsequent semesters only, and only with the express permission of the employer, including a laboratory head.

Graduate teaching fellows should not receive Reading and Research (300-level) or other course credit for the time they devote to teaching, but may receive credit by signing up for TIME–T on their study cards. TIME is the term used by the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences to designate independent study (TIME–C), research (TIME–R), or teaching (TIME–T). Students “receive credit” for such pursuits in the sense that TIME appears on the GSAS transcript, however, students are not graded for TIME.

CUE Course Evaluation

The Committee on Undergraduate Education (CUE), oversees a process of course evaluation each term. This evaluation process serves several purposes. It provides feedback from students to the head of a course about course structure, the quality of the instruction, and the nature of assignments. It also provides important feedback for instructional support staff, many of whom are in their early years of teaching and benefit from the comments of students. Finally, the evaluation process is the basis of the CUE Course Evaluation Guide that is written and edited by undergraduates under the guidance of the Committee on Undergraduate Education. The aim of the CUE Guide is to provide undergraduates with reliable information to be used as one of many inputs during the process of choosing courses.

Participation in the CUE evaluation process is voluntary, but roughly 90 percent of courses with enrollments of 5 or more are evaluated. Each term emails are sent to the heads of undergraduate courses inviting them to participate in the course evaluation process. The course evaluation process itself takes place on line.

Summary statistics and comments submitted by students are sent to the course heads, teaching fellows, teaching assistants, and course assistants of evaluated courses after final grades for the term have been submitted. Course evaluation results are sent to the chair of the department or committee offering the course. Both faculty and instructional support staff, particularly teaching fellows, should keep this information, as it will be useful later as an input to promotion decisions and as part of consideration for other teaching positions.

The Office of Academic Programs reviews the forms for any member of the instructional support staff whose average “overall” rating raises concerns about the quality of instruction. In these very few cases, the Associate Dean of Harvard College may send a letter to that instructor, copied to the course head(s), urging him or her to seek appropriate advice on how to improve his or her teaching. If members of the instructional support staff receive such cautionary letters a second time, they may be prohibited from further teaching in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

Final and Midyear Examinations

Final and Midyear examinations are three-hour written tests administered and proctored by the staff of the Office of the Registrar at locations and times specified by the Registrar. Courses ordinarily hold final examinations, and half and full courses that run throughout the year hold midyear examinations. Any deviation from the scheduled three-hour examination requires the prior approval of the Office of Academic Programs (for courses below the 200- or 2000-level) or the Dean of the Graduate School (for courses at the 200- or 2000-level). (See Requesting a Substitution on page 44.) Examination substitutions for research courses, seminars, tutorials, and other low enrollment courses (see below for definition) are automatically approved by the Office of the Registrar. (See also Hour and Midterm Examinations on page 36.)

To earn credit for a course or to count the course toward fulfillment of the requirements for a degree, the student must have attended the final examination (or midyear and final if a full-year course) or an approved makeup. A student's unexcused absence from a midyear or final examination will ordinarily result in a failing grade for the course (ABS). The course head is not empowered to excuse student absences from midyear, final, or makeup examinations scheduled by the Registrar. Furthermore, the course head may not give a final examination at a special time to accommodate the needs of an individual student or authorize the substitution of another exercise for an examination. Undergraduate students who request special accommodations should be directed to their resident deans. Graduate students should be directed to the FAS Deputy Registrar.

Students are entitled to complete course requirements and to take the final examination. They must not be discouraged from doing so, even when previous course work has earned a cumulative failing grade. Only a student whose serious and persistent neglect of academic work has led to formal exclusion from the course is ineligible to take the final, midyear, or makeup examination (see Exclusion on page 59).

Examination Categories

At the beginning of each term, course heads will receive a Final Examination Information form for each course they teach and will be asked to classify their courses according to the following categories:

A. Standard Three-hour Examination Required (No Substitutions)

All students enrolled in this course are expected to write a three-hour examination administered by the Office of the Registrar during the exam period.

B. Standard Three-hour Examination for All Undergraduates, Substitutions for All Graduates

All undergraduates will write a three-hour examination and all graduate students will submit an examination substitution (a paper, project, take-home examination, etc.). All substitutions should be completed by the last day of Reading Period.

C1. No Three-Hour Final Examination for Any Student (Lower Enrollment Courses)

Low enrollment (undergraduate course with enrollment of less than 20 students or combined graduate/undergraduate course with fewer than 30 students) or undergraduate tutorial, seminar, or research course primarily for graduate students. (Automatic approval.) All substitutions should be completed by the last day of Reading Period.

C2. No Three-hour Examination for Any Student

Final exam substitution is preferable for all students. (See Requesting a Substitution below.)

All substitutions should be completed by the last day of Reading Period.

D. Optional Examination Substitution for Certain Students, Standard Three-hour Examination for All Other Students

An alternative means of evaluation offered to certain students in lieu of the final three-hour exam. Ordinarily, substitution for an individual student is not allowed. (See Requesting a Substitution below.) All substitutions should be completed by the last day of Reading Period.

Requesting a Substitution

When petitioning for an exam substitution, the course head must describe the alternative form of evaluation and explain why it is more appropriate than a three-hour examination. All substitutions should be completed by the last day of Reading Period. In courses in which the number of students is large (over 30) or where a range of different types of work will be accepted in lieu of the examination, the course head must indicate the steps that will be taken to ensure equity in grading. Course heads should also indicate the other course assignments (hour examinations, laboratory reports, papers, etc.) that will be included in the final evaluation of the students' performance.

Course heads who plan to petition the appropriate dean for permission to substitute should announce their intention at the first class meeting, and on the course syllabus. However, only after the petition has been formally approved by the dean should course heads announce the cancellation of a midyear or final examination. Course heads may submit petitions for exam substitutions to the Office of the Registrar any time before the first meeting of class with a special request for early decision.

Please note that all students who are in the AB/AM degree program are to be treated as undergraduates for the purposes of completing all of the course requirements by the end of the final exam period; for exam substitutions; and for grading. The one exception is that the course head may treat AB/AM students as graduate students, for the purpose of exam substitutions, if the student has bracketed the course toward the AM degree. See also Take-Home Examinations.

Completion of Work Assigned for Substitutions

Course heads should not assign any work to be done during the Examination Period. Faculty policy stipulates that this time should be reserved for standard three-hour exams. Any work assigned as a substitution for a midyear or final examination must be completed before the end of Reading Period.

Take-Home Examinations

Take-home examinations are considered substitutions and, like other substitutions, must be due before the end of Reading Period. When assigning a take home exam it is imperative that the instructor be mindful of student obligations to other courses, some of which continue to meet during the Reading Period. Course heads should be careful to explain to students in writing the extent of collaboration and any source materials that may be permitted in the preparation of the examination.

Examination Scheduling

For most courses an examination group is published in Courses of Instruction within the course description. Examination groups correspond to class meeting times and ordinarily change if the meeting time changes. However, occasionally there is a misprint in the course catalog and the exam group does not correspond with the meeting time. Please note the correct exam group will be changed to correspond with the meeting time. Occasionally, the Office of the Registrar may need to assign an exam group that does not correspond to the meeting time of the course.

Classes that meet for periods longer than one hour are listed in the catalog with more than one exam group. The exam group for such a course will be chosen by the Registrar's Office.

Many factors must be considered when scheduling eighteen exam groups within an eight-day examination period, including student conflicts, room availability, and personnel resources. As a result, the Office of the Registrar is unable to accommodate individual requests to assign alternative exam groups to courses.

Since the days and hours for courses are subject to change, official dates and times for examinations are published on the Final Examination Schedule. It is posted at the Registrar's website (www.registrar.harvard.edu) shortly before Reading Period. The Final Examination Schedule will be available during the first week of January for fall final/midyear examinations and during the first week of May for spring final examinations.

Examination Groups and Dates

The table below shows the dates of final examinations associated with each of the final examination groups. For most courses, an examination group is published in Courses of Instruction within the course description. Examination groups correspond to course meeting days and times and ordinarily change if the course meeting days and times change. Occasionally, the Office of the Registrar may need to assign an exam group that does not correspond to the meeting days and times of a course. All students are therefore advised that they should not make any travel plans until the official final examination schedule is published. Students are expected to be in residence for the duration of the final examination period. For the fall term, the final examination period is January 13, 2007, through January 23, 2007. For the spring term, the final examination period is May 17, 2007, through May 25, 2007.

Administration of Examinations

Final and Midyear examinations are administered by proctors trained and supervised by the Office of the Registrar. The exam procedures they follow are intended to protect the security of examinations and to ensure that students undertake the writing of their exams in an environment free of distractions and disturbances. There are two exam sessions per day during the Examination Period; morning examinations start at 9:15 am and afternoon examinations start at 2:15 pm.

Course Head Obligations during the administration of exams

- All courses are expected to handle the printing and photocopying of their own examinations.
- The course head is responsible for bringing the examination to the exam room 20 minutes prior to the beginning of the examination.
- Course heads are also expected to be present at their examination for at least the first fifteen minutes and to be available by phone for the duration of the exam. In case of necessary absence, the course head should appoint an appropriate delegate who is conversant with the course and able to answer questions that might arise at the examination.
- Course heads must retrieve the following items from the exam room:
 - completed examination booklets,
 - scrap booklets,
 - all other course materials (slides, audiotapes, etc.). If unable to pick up the completed examination booklets after an examination, he or she must delegate a representative to perform this task.

Proctor Responsibilities during the administration of exams

- The Office of the Registrar provides examination booklets and proctors who take attendance and administer the examinations.
- Proctors may ask teaching staff for assistance in the distribution and collection of examination materials, however, it is important that the teaching staff follow instructions of the head proctors.
- Report any unusual circumstances to the course head.

Course Head Obligations after the final examination

- Instructors should take every precaution to prevent the accidental loss of examination booklets. For example, under no circumstances should examination booklets be removed from the neighborhood of the University. If a course head has temporarily left the Cambridge area, only photocopies of the booklets should be sent to the course head for grading.
- Examination booklets should be kept for one year after the end of the course.
- Most instructors return exam booklets, papers, and other academic work to the student enrolled in their courses. By law, students have the right to review all materials submitted to a course, including final examination booklets and, for a reasonable charge, may have copies of any originals not returned to them.

Religious Conflicts with Final/Midyear Examinations

Students who anticipate any religious conflicts with examinations and report those conflicts in writing to the Office of the Registrar at fasexams@fas by the last day of classes each term will receive accommodations. Accommodations may not be possible if the conflict is reported after that date.

Examinations In Absentia

Students who for sufficient reason cannot be within 500 miles of Cambridge at the time of a final, midyear, or makeup examination may request to take the examination at another location. All examinations in absentia must be approved by the Administrative Board. Students must contact their Resident Dean to initiate this process. A petition to take an examination in absentia will not be accepted without the course head's signature, acknowledging the requirement to provide the Office of the Registrar with an early copy of the examination. Student applications for in absentia exams are due in the Office of the Registrar by the last day of classes before the examination date. Under extraordinary circumstances, the Administrative Board may grant examinations in absentia after the deadline has passed.

An in absentia examination is administered at the same time and date as the examination in Cambridge and must be proctored by someone approved by the Office of the Registrar. After determining that these conditions can be met, the Office of the Registrar will request a copy of the examination from the course head. For reasons of equity, this copy must be identical to that given at the regular examination in Cambridge. After the examination is written and returned to Cambridge, the Office of the Registrar will contact the course head to collect the exam.

Students are charged $100 for each examination taken in absentia to cover administrative costs. The in absentia fee may be waived for students who are participants in varsity competition where Harvard University is being officially represented. Additionally, the in absentia fee may be waived for students who are participants in varsity competition where Harvard University is being officially represented. Additionally, the in absentia fee may be waived for students who are studying abroad for Harvard degree credit with prior approval from the Office on International Programs and the Standing Committee on Education Abroad.

Final Examination Options for Study Abroad Students

Beginning this year, students who are enrolled in an approved Study Abroad program will work directly with course heads to resolve issues regarding midyear or final examinations that conflict with their participation in the Study Abroad programs. Once a student finalizes his or her decision to enroll in a Study Abroad program, the student, together with the course head, must complete a Study Abroad Final Examination form. This form should be submitted no later than two weeks prior to the last day of the fall term. The form can be found at the Office of the Registrar's website. The course head and student will be allowed to consider the following options:

- Student will sit for the exam in absentia. Faculty member will provide the FAS Exams Office with a copy of the exam. Student makes arrangements with a proctor to proctor the exam. The logistics are coordinated through the FAS Exams Office.
- Student will be given an exam substitution. This can take any form (take-home exam, paper, etc). The exam substitution will be due no later than the last day of the Reading Period.

- Student will be allowed to take a three-hour written exam prior to leaving for winter recess. This option is only allowable if a student and faculty member complete and submit this form at least two weeks prior to the last day of classes. It is expected that the exam will be administered during the final week of classes.

Makeup Examinations

The Administrative Board of Harvard College has sole jurisdiction over granting makeup examinations for undergraduates. The Registrar's Office has been authorized by the Graduate School to approve or deny makeup petitions for graduate students. Course heads may not give a makeup midyear or final examination without notification from the Office of the Registrar. Moreover, course heads may not give a makeup examination at any time or location other than that specified by the Office of the Registrar. The granting of a makeup examination by the Administrative Board does not imply that the student may receive credit for any assigned work in the course not submitted by the end of the Examination Period.

Makeup examinations are ordinarily granted by the Administrative Board in cases of medically documented illness or extraordinary circumstances over which the student had no control, such as a death in the family. Makeups are sometimes granted to undergraduate participants in intercollegiate competition, but only when examinations in absentia cannot be arranged. By vote of the Faculty Council, makeup examinations may also be granted when a student who is in good standing in the course misses an examination because of inadvertence, provided the petition is supported by the course head and filed on time. Undergraduate and graduate students in the FAS may be granted a makeup examination on the grounds of inadvertence only once during their tenure at Harvard.

If called upon to do so, course heads must prepare appropriate makeup examinations and grade them. Makeup exams are usually administered the third week of a term. Ordinarily a makeup examination should not be a duplicate of the original exam.

Course grades dependent upon makeup examinations should be reported to the Office of the Registrar one week after the date of such examinations. The undergraduate transcript carries the notation “#” next to the final grade for any course in which the student took a makeup examination.

Makeup midterm examinations are not granted by the Administrative Board nor the Registrar's Office. Offering such makeup examinations or substituting other work is at the discretion of the course head, except in the case of an absence for the observation of religious holidays. (See Hour and Midterm Examinations on page 36.) The Office of the Registrar has no role in midterm examinations.

Publication of Past Final and Midyear Examinations

Final and Midyear Examinations have traditionally been collected and made available electronically on a website accessible only to Harvard account holders at www.fas.harvard.edu/~exams. However, the head of a course may request at the time of the exam that the final examination not be included in the electronic library collection.

Grades

The Grading System

The Registrar is authorized to obtain from instructors reports on the performance of students in the form of the grades established by the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Grade sheets for reporting grades are made available to instructors and must be completed by the indicated due dates (see pages 53–55). The Faculty of Arts and Sciences uses the following system of letter and non-letter grades to evaluate undergraduate student work:

Letter Grades—Undergraduate Students

|------------------|--|
| A, A- | Earned by work whose excellent quality indicates a full mastery of the subject and, in the case of the grade of A, is of extraordinary distinction. |
| B+, B, B- | Earned by work that indicates a good comprehension of the course material, a good command of the skills needed to work with the course material, and the student's full engagement with the course requirements and activities. |
| C+, C, C- | Earned by work that indicates an adequate and satisfactory comprehension of the course material and the skills needed to work with the course material and that indicates the student has met the basic requirements for completing assigned work and participating in class activities. |
| D+, D, D- | Earned by work that is unsatisfactory but that indicates some minimal command of the course materials and some minimal participation in class activities that is worthy of course credit toward the degree. |
| E | Earned by work which is unsatisfactory and unworthy of course credit towards the degree. |

Non-letter Grades—Undergraduate Students

Incomplete (INC) cannot under any circumstances be given to undergraduates.

| ABS | Students who miss a regularly-scheduled midyear or final examination administered by the Office of the Registrar during the Midyear or Final Examination Period are given a failing grade of Absent (ABS) which will be changed only if the student is granted and takes a makeup examination. Unexcused absences are counted as failures (see pages 43–49). No other grade can be accepted. Exam substitutions not administered by the Registrar's Office, including take-home examinations and special final projects, are not "regularly-scheduled" examinations; therefore, ABS cannot be used in these cases. If, after an absence from a regularly scheduled midyear or final examination, a student is granted a makeup examination by the Administrative Board, the appropriate grade is then submitted after completion of the examination. A special grade sheet is provided for this purpose. The final grade will have the notation "#" next to it on the transcript. |
| EXLD | A notation of Excluded (EXLD) indicates that the student was not permitted to continue in the course by vote of the Administrative Board of the College and received no credit. Exclusion from a course is equivalent in all respects to failing it and in and of itself makes the student's record for the term unsatisfactory. |
| EXT | Instructors may allow students extensions of time to complete course work up to the last day of the Examination Period. After that date, only the Administrative Board may grant extensions of time for undergraduates to complete course work (see page 37). Until the date of extension set by the Board, a final grade should not be reported by the instructor; instead, the designation EXT (Extension) should be reported on the grade sheet. |

EXT is only a temporary notation. When the allowed time for late work has passed, the instructor should officially inform the Registrar of the final grade. The student's record will contain the “#” notation to indicate that this grade was obtained after an extension of time. Students who miss a midyear or final examination must be given an ABS (Absent), not an EXT.

PA/FL The grade of Pass represents letter grades of A to D-; the grade of Fail represents the letter grade of E only. Students admitted to a course on a PA/FL basis are so identified on the grade sheet. For such students, only a grade of Pass or Fail can be accepted by the Registrar. Independent Study is always graded PA/FL.

SAT/UNS The grade of Satisfactory includes letter grades from A to C-; the grade of Unsatisfactory represents work below C- and is considered a failing grade. No students enrolled in courses graded SAT/UNS may receive letter grades in those courses.

The following junior and senior tutorials must be graded SAT/UNS:

|------------------------------------|--|
| Applied Mathematics 99r | Literature 98 and 99 |
| Chemistry 91, 98, and 99 | Mathematics 60r |
| English 98 and 99 | Portuguese 99 |
| Folklore and Mythology 99 | Psychology 985, 990, 992, and 993 |
| French 99 | Religion 99 |
| German 99 | Romance Studies 99 |
| Government 99 | Scandinavian 99 |
| History 99 | Slavic 99 |
| History and Literature 99 | Social Studies 99 |
| History of Art and Architecture 99 | Sociology 99 |
| Italian 99 | Spanish 99 |
| Latin American Studies 99 | Special Concentrations 99 |
| Linguistics 99 | Studies of Women, Gender, and Sexuality 99 |

All Freshman Seminars are graded SAT/UNS.

Certain House Seminars may also be graded SAT/UNS, provided instructors inform the Standing Committee on Freshman Seminars of their intentions at the time the House Seminar proposals are submitted, and all students in a particular seminar are graded on the same scale.

In addition, SAT/UNS may be reported as a midyear grade in any full year tutorial or half-course extending throughout the year which does not give a midyear examination. In this case only, Unsatisfactory may be used to indicate passing-but-unsatisfactory work.

The instructor must obtain permission from the Office of Academic Programs (for courses below the 200- or 2000-level) or Dean of the Graduate School (for courses at the 200- or 2000-level) before grading SAT/UNS for any course not listed above.

Satisfactory and Unsatisfactory Undergraduate Studies

Grades of C- or higher, as well as the grades of PA and SAT, are passing and satisfactory grades. Grades of D+ through D- are passing but unsatisfactory grades. Grades of E, ABS (Absent), FL (Fail), UNS (Unsatisfactory), and EXLD (Excluded) are failing grades. All undergraduate student records with any unsatisfactory or failing grade are reviewed at the end of the term by the Administrative Board, which responds to such records in the manner described in the appropriate sections of the Handbook for Students and in the Administrative Board Guide for Students. Responses may include a period of academic probation or a requirement to withdraw from the College for a year.

Letter Grades—Graduate Students

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences uses the following letter grades: A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, C-, D+, D, D-, E. A grade of E is a failing grade.

The minimum standard for satisfactory work in the Graduate School is a “B” average in each academic year. A grade of “C” or “INC” is offset by a grade of “A” and a “D” by two “A’s”; no account is taken of plus or minus. Grades of “E” or an unexcused “ABS” are failing. A grade of “UNS” is unsatisfactory. A course in which a student receives an “E” or permanent “INC” or “ABS” may be retaken for credit at a later time, in which case both grades will appear on the student’s transcript. In many departments, students are expected to maintain an average well above the GSAS minimum.

Letter grades are to be used in every case except as follows:

Non-letter Grades—Graduate StudentsGraduate students are not allowed to take courses on a Pass/Fail (PA/FL) basis.

- ABS The designation ABS (Absent) is used in the case of a student who is absent from a regularly scheduled midyear or final examination administered by the Office of the Registrar during the Midyear or Final Examination Period. No other grade can be accepted. Exam substitutions not administered by the Registrar’s Office, including take-home examinations and special final projects are not “regularly scheduled” examinations; therefore, ABS cannot be used in courses with take-home final exams. If, after an absence from a regularly scheduled midyear or final examination, a student is subsequently granted a makeup examination by the Deputy Registrar, the appropriate grade is then submitted after completion of the examination. A special grade sheet is provided for this purpose.
- EXC Graduate students may be excused from a final examination or other course assignments by their division, department, or committee Chairs on the basis of having passed departmental examinations or other requirements. At the written request of a Chair, the Deputy Registrar records the grade of EXC (Excused). If students elect to take the final examination and complete the course, they receive a letter grade.
- INC For graduate students only the instructor has the prerogative of approving an extension of time for completion of course work beyond the end of the term. The appropriate grade in this situation is INC (Incomplete), not EXT (Extension). In order to have the grade of INC changed to a letter or appropriate non-letter grade, the graduate student must complete the work of the course before the end of the next regular term. An INC which has not been completed by that time will become a permanent grade, unless the student successfully petitions for an extension of time. This petition requires the approval of the Director of Graduate Studies and of the Dean of the Graduate School. When a student has made up an INC within the allowable time period, the instructor should immediately inform the Registrar of the grade in writing. If the instructor reports the grade after the deadline for completing the work has passed, the instructor must include the date on which the student submitted the work to the instructor. Failure to affirm to the Registrar that the student completed the work on time will render the grade unacceptable.
- SAT/UNS For graduate students, Satisfactory indicates that the course was passed with distinction (B- or above). Graduate courses of Reading and Research (300-level courses) must be graded Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory. No other courses may be graded on a SAT/UNS basis with the exception of designated foreign language courses. Graduate students must petition to obtain permission from the instructor to take a language course on a SAT/UNS basis. Graduate students admitted to a course on a SAT/UNS basis are so identified on the grade sheet.

Student Request for Review of an Assigned Grade

Both undergraduate and graduate students may request that an instructor review a grade that has been received and may also ask to consult with the Chair of the department or committee offering the course. However, final authority for the assignment of grades rests with the course head. Instructors wishing to change a grade should submit their requests to either the Office of Academic Programs (for an undergraduate) or the Dean of the Graduate School (for a graduate student), c/o The Registrar, 20 Garden Street (617-495-1546). (See also Changes in Grades on page 56.)

Grade Point Averages

The Faculty of Arts and Sciences averages its letter grades with a 4-point scale: A = 4.00, A- = 3.67, B+ = 3.33, B = 3.00, B- = 2.67, C+ = 2.33, C = 2.00, C- = 1.67, D+ = 1.33, D = 1.00, D- = 0.67. E, ABS, UNS, EXLD = 0. The grade point average is the numerical average of all grades received in courses taken under the Faculty of Arts and Sciences for degree credit, including courses taken for credit in the Harvard Summer School and cross-registration courses as appropriate. Passing grades received for courses given by other Harvard Faculties or MIT will not be used in computing a student's grade-point average except when the courses are counted toward concentration requirements or taken in the Graduate School of Education as part of UTEP. Grades received for course work done out of residence will not be used in computing the grade-point average. Grade-point averages are calculated on both a cumulative and annual basis.

Submission of Final and Midyear Grades

During the midyear and final examination periods, instructors should not leave the vicinity of Cambridge until their course grades have been submitted to the Office of the Registrar. Because the course head is responsible for the grades given by his or her assistants, it is important that the course head closely supervise grading. (See Responsibility for Evaluation on page 15.) Completed grade sheets should be submitted to the Office of the Registrar as soon as possible but no later than the due date noted. Each grade sheet for a course must be approved and submitted by the course head.

Due Dates for Midterm Grades 2006–2007

Unsatisfactory midterm grades for undergraduates in courses below the 200-level are due by 5 pm in the Office of the Registrar, 20 Garden Street on the following days. (See Midterm Grades for Undergraduates, page 38.)

Fall term: Friday, November 3

Spring term: Friday, March 16

Due Dates for Fall Final/Midyear Grades 2006–2007Courses Without Examinations

For all fall courses without final or midyear examinations, including 300-level courses and courses with approved substitutions (see page 44), final grades are due in the Registrar's Office on Tuesday, January 16.

Submitting Late Grades

Grades must be submitted to the Office of the Registrar on or before the due dates noted. Instructors who anticipate that they will be unable to meet these deadlines should contact the Deputy Registrar (617-495-1546) with an appropriate explanation.

Final Grades in Full Courses

Final grades in full courses are always cumulative—that is, they represent the standing of the students from the beginning of the first term of the course, not merely during the second term.

Final Grades for Degree Candidates

Grades for degree candidates must be submitted by the date specified on the separate grade sheets provided for this purpose. Usually the due date is four working days after the final examination or, for courses with no final exams, at the end of Reading Period. Grades submitted on these degree grade sheets are final grades and may not be changed except as indicated below in Changes in Grades.

Changes in Grades

Once a grade has been reported to the Registrar it can be changed only upon the instructor's written request to either the Office of Academic Programs (for an undergraduate) or the Dean of the Graduate School (for a graduate student), c/o The Registrar, 20 Garden Street (617-495-1546). The written request should include an explanation for the grade change. If a grade change is requested because of a clerical error or misunderstanding of Faculty rules concerning the grading structure, the appropriate dean will ordinarily authorize the Registrar to change the grade. In the case of a grade change due to judgmental error, the instructor is expected to review the work of other students in the course or relevant section(s) to determine that grade equity would be maintained if the grade change were approved. When late work is the basis of a grade change request, it is essential that the work have been received by the deadline set by the Faculty: the end of the Examination Period for undergraduates or the end of the next regular term for graduate students. Before authorizing any grade change, the appropriate dean must be satisfied that all students in the course have been treated equitably. Grade Change forms are available under the Faculty section of the Registrar's website, www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu.

Although the grades of degree candidates are reported before those of other students, these grades are considered final and are subject to the same regulations for changes.

Posting of Grades

It is the Faculty's legal responsibility to maintain confidentiality of student grades and also of materials upon which evaluations are made. For this reason, instructors should not post grades by student name or student identification number. Furthermore, instructors should never make a student's submitted work, such as problem sets, exam booklets, or papers, accessible to anyone other than the student who has submitted it, unless specifically authorized to do so by the author.

Approximately ten business days after the end of the final examination period, students can view their final and midyear grades via the Registrar's Office website (www.registrar.fas.harvard.edu).

Retention of Examination Booklets and Course Records

Most instructors return exam booklets, papers, and other academic work to the students enrolled in their courses. Work that is not returned to students must be kept in a safe, accessible location on campus for at least one year after the end of a course. By law, students have the right to review all materials submitted to a course, and for a reasonable charge, may have copies of any originals not returned to them. Course heads should be sure to collect from section leaders and tutors any course assignments that have not been returned to students for appropriate storage. Faculty who are leaving the FAS or who will be on leave and away from the University should make appropriate arrangements for maintaining the availability of students' work.

Addressing Student Problems

The Administrative Boards

The Administrative Board of Harvard College has the responsibility for reviewing all unsatisfactory undergraduate records and disciplinary cases for possible action. The Board also votes on all student petitions for makeup examinations as well as exceptions to the academic rules described in the Harvard College Handbook for Students. The Board is composed of the Dean of Harvard College, the Resident Deans for Freshmen and Resident Deans for the thirteen upper-class Houses (see below), and several administrative and teaching members of the Faculty.

The Administrative Board of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences reviews and rules on all matters of discipline and unsatisfactory student performance as well as exceptions to the rules contained in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences Handbook. The Board is composed of the Dean of the Graduate School, the Administrative Dean, six teaching members of the Faculty, the Registrar, the Associate Dean for Student Affairs, the Dean for Admissions and Financial Aid, and the Student Affairs Officer. Up to four graduate students serve on the Board when it is considering appeals of financial aid and teaching fellow appointment decisions.

The Resident Deans

Working with the Dean of Harvard College are the thirteen Allston Burr Resident Deans (formerly Senior Tutors), one in each of the Houses. These resident deans are directly responsible for the academic and personal welfare of undergraduates. The Dean of Freshmen and the three Resident Deans for Freshmen (formerly Assistant Deans) have the same responsibilities for first-year students. The Coordinator of Transfer and Visiting Student Programs fulfills such responsibilities for visiting undergraduates.

Whenever instructors have a concern about an undergraduate, they are urged to contact the appropriate resident dean. Students' House affiliations or freshman status are indicated on course lists. A list of Resident Deans may be found in the FAS Directory on page 71.

Graduate School Office of Student Affairs

Instructors with concerns regarding graduate students' academic or personal welfare should contact the Office of Student Affairs in Byerly Hall (617-495-1816). This office is directed by the Associate Dean for Student Affairs, who has general responsibility for the welfare of graduate students and monitors students' academic status. The Associate Dean represents students in disciplinary cases before the Administrative Board of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and advises students on sexual harassment complaints.

Neglect of Academic Work by Students: Exclusion

A student who is neglecting course work should be warned in writing that he or she risks exclusion from the course and that exclusion is equivalent to a failing grade. A copy of the instructor's warning must be sent to the Secretary of the Administrative Board of Harvard College in the case of an undergraduate and to the Administrative Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences in the case of a graduate student. If the student continues to neglect academic work after receiving this written warning, the instructor should then send a second letter requesting exclusion to the Secretary or Administrative Dean as appropriate, who will forward it to the Administrative Board for action. Upon the Board's approval of the exclusion petition, the student is denied any right to further course evaluation, including final and makeup examinations.

It is to the advantage of both the student and faculty member to address early a case of gross neglect of course work. An undergraduate has the option of withdrawing from the course before the seventh Monday of the term. Beyond that date there remain only a few weeks for the instructor to pursue the process of warning and exclusion or, conversely, for the student to recover much lost ground.

Faculty policy gives the Administrative Boards no choice but to grant a makeup exam to any student who remains in a course until the end of the term and presents a medical excuse, signed by an appropriate Harvard University Health Service (HUHS) staff member, for missing the final examination. This policy applies even when circumstances clearly indicate the student's gross neglect of academic work during the term.

Reports of Undergraduates with Unsatisfactory Records

The Office of the Registrar provides unsatisfactory grade report forms with final, midyear, and midterm grade sheets. Instructors are urged to use these forms to comment on undergraduates who have earned unsatisfactory course grades. (Unsatisfactory grades are: D, E, EXLD, FL, UNS, ABS. See The Grading System on page 50.) Instructors' comments on these unsatisfactory grade reports are of great value to the students' advisers and to the Administrative Board, which reviews student records. Instructors should submit unsatisfactory grade reports to the Registrar along with their grade sheets.

In addition, instructors are strongly encouraged to communicate concerns about an undergraduate's work directly to the student's Allston Burr Resident Dean or Resident Dean for Freshmen as early in the term as possible.

Students Charged with Dishonesty in Course Work

Although instructors have the responsibility for evaluating students' academic performance, the Faculty has granted jurisdiction over matters of student dishonesty to the Administrative Boards. Therefore, any incidence of possible student dishonesty in course work should be reported at once to the Dean of Harvard College (through the Secretary of the Administrative Board of Harvard College) if an undergraduate is involved or to the Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences in the case of a graduate student. After a preliminary investigation, the Dean will decide whether to refer the matter to the appropriate Administrative Board.

Each case involving possible student dishonesty that goes to an Administrative Board will receive a careful hearing. Action taken by either Board can range from "scratch" (the Board decides that no disciplinary action is warranted) to requirement to withdraw or even a recommendation to the Faculty that the student be dismissed. In cases involving undergraduates who have misused source materials in the preparation of course work, the Administrative Board of Harvard College will often recommend and make available appropriate instruction on the proper use of sources and footnotes.

Students have a right to expect that grading will not be used as punishment for alleged academic dishonesty that has not been confirmed by the Administrative Board. Students may ask the Board, through their Resident Dean, to investigate and resolve informal allegations of academic dishonesty that have not been brought to the Board's attention by a faculty member.

Troubled Students

Instructors are not responsible for counseling students on personal or emotional difficulties, even when those problems affect academic work. Undergraduate students who seem to be unusually upset or who are in need of special help should be referred to their Resident Dean. Instructors are encouraged to call the resident dean to discuss their concerns about a particular undergraduate. Concern about a graduate student should be referred to the Associate Dean for Student Affairs (617-495-1814). The Mental Health Service of the Harvard University Health Services (617-495-2042) and the Bureau of Study Counsel (617-495-2581) are also available to help troubled students, both undergraduate and graduate.

Athletics and Administrative Sports Liaisons

The Harvard College Dean's Office, Administrative Board, and Department of Athletics collaborated to develop a policy that limits the number of class days and weekend days that may be missed per semester on account of athletic competition. Controls and approval processes are in place to ensure that communication between an athlete and his or her Resident Dean occurs prior to travel from campus. Athletes are ultimately responsible for resolving academic/athletic scheduling conflicts directly with academic faculty and staff. Administrative Sport Liaisons, designated by the Athletics Director and assigned to each team, are available to assist athletes with the compliance of these policies and procedures. Questions regarding these policies should be directed to Patricia Henry, Senior Associate Director of Athletics (617-495-2201), pwhenry@fas.

Teaching Resources

Bok Center for Teaching and Learning

bokcenter.harvard.edu

The Derek Bok Center for Teaching and Learning was created in 1975 to be a resource for the improvement of teaching in Harvard College. The Bok Center offers consultations for faculty and teaching fellows, videotaping of classes, support for foreign faculty and teaching fellows, classroom observations, the Faculty Lecture & Lunch series, a program to foster writing across the curriculum, a seminar on pedagogy, and a course on discussion leading skills, as well as orientations, conferences, workshops, and a library of books, periodicals and videotapes on teaching. Instructors interested in these services or any kind of consultation about their teaching are encouraged to call or email the Bok Center at bokcenter@fas. Further information and resources are available on the Bok Center's website.

Bureau of Study Counsel
5 Linden Street
Phone: (617-495-2581); Fax: (617-495-7680)
bsc.harvard.edu

The Bureau of Study Counsel is a resource center for students' academic and personal development. It was established to help students develop their intellectual and emotional potential, and to make the most from their time at college. Students come to the Bureau to improve their academic skills and strategies (such as reading, note-making, exam-taking, time management, procrastination, memory, public speaking, writing, etc.) and to talk about broader academic and personal concerns (such as relationships, motivation, adjusting to college, important life events, future direction, etc.).

The Bureau's mission is based in an educational/developmental model. Through its various services, the Bureau aims to help students think with more complexity; develop a sense of voice and authority in their scholarship and in their lives generally; approach their work and lives with honesty, curiosity, creativity, and zest; learn to set limits with self and others; cultivate healthy relationships; survive, and even thrive, in a stressful, competitive environment; develop their capacity for critical discernment and judgment; and make meaning of their lives.

The confidential services available to students include

- academic and personal counseling;
- study strategy materials in print and on line;
- groups and workshops on topics related to academics and student life;
- peer tutoring in Harvard courses;
- the Workshop in Studying at Harvard (for freshmen); and
- the Harvard Course in Reading and Study Strategies.

In addition to direct services for students, consultation services are available to faculty, teaching fellows, administrators, residential staff, and student peer-service groups on issues related to student life and learning. Professionals who work with students in these capacities are invited to contact the Bureau in confidence regarding any concern they may have about a student's academic performance, classroom, behavior, or personal difficulties. The Bureau also provides training/supervision of peer counseling groups, and central coordination and training/supervision of peer tutors.

Faculty members are invited to freely refer or recommend students to Bureau services, and a brochure called "How to Refer a Student" is available to aid with such conversations. The Harvard Course in Reading and Study Strategies is a 14-session course offered five times per year, with a course fee of $25 for undergraduates. Faculty, teaching fellows, and residence staff may enroll in the course at no charge. Academic peer-tutoring is available in any subject (most tutors are undergraduates who have done honors work in the courses they tutor; there is a charge of $4 per hour for tutoring, which may be offset by financial aid). Please note that academic peer tutoring is provided as a supplement, not a substitute, for course instruction: the Dean of the College has designated the Bureau to act on behalf of the University in selecting, hiring, supervising, and employing undergraduate tutors ("No student may accept compensation for private tutoring in Harvard courses without the written permission of the Dean. Violation of these rules makes a student liable to requirement to withdraw" Handbook for Students). Personal counseling helps students understand their own learning goals and styles, deal with the challenges of this demanding environment, define their own motivations and aspirations, and address the issues that interfere with their efforts to fully engage in their learning and their lives. Bureau services are confidential, in keeping with relevant law and profession practices. Waiting times, if any, are short. There is no charge for counseling.

Additional information and online resources are available on the Bureau's website: bsc.harvard.edu.

Harvard University Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Computer Services (HASCS)
Science Center
www.fas.harvard.edu/computing

HASCS, also known as the FAS Computer Services, provides a variety of computing services and facilities to students, faculty, and staff of the Harvard University Faculty of Arts and Sciences (FAS) and its affiliates. Most services are distributed via the FAS Network, a high-speed, fiber-optic data network that connects student residences, faculty and administrative offices, libraries, laboratories, and public spaces. HASCS has specialists dedicated to providing for the needs of instruction, student communication, and faculty-staff interaction. HASCS maintains a service-oriented website.

Faculty and Staff Technical Support
fasc@harvard.edu (617-496-2727)

HASCS offers technical support to faculty and staff through the Faculty and Staff Computer Support (FASCS) program. FASCS provides support for network connections, software operation, and hardware repair. A network of local Information Technology (IT) Contacts acts as liaison to HASCS computer support and often serve as the first line of faculty and staff computer support. Faculty and staff members may also participate in HASCS training programs, discussion groups, and clinics, which are designed to improve general computer competency and knowledge. The FASCS support line is available to IT Contacts and faculty. Computer assistance for faculty and staff is available via email.

Harvard University Library System

Harvard's library system, which dates from 1638, is the oldest library in the US and the largest academic library in the world. With more than 15 million books and a burgeoning number of digital objects and electronic resources, the collections are housed in more than 90 libraries, most of which are located in Cambridge and Boston. Of these collections, more than half are in the purview of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, specifically in the Harvard College Library (HCL).

Harvard College Librarywww.hcl.harvard.edu

The Harvard College Library (HCL) is actually a system of libraries that support the teaching and research activities of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, the University, and the larger scholarly community. Librarians throughout the HCL libraries offer a variety of services to users: assistance at reference desks, individual consultations by appointment, online reference service, and course-related research instruction. They compose research guides on almost every subject offered in the College and make them available online at www.hcl.harvard.edu/research/guides.

In addition to the Harry Elkins Widener Memorial Library—which is the University's flagship—HCL operates:

- Cabot Science Library
- Fine Arts Library (includes Harvard Film Archive)
- Harvard–Yenching Library
- Houghton Library (includes Harvard Theatre Collection)
- Lamont Library (includes Quad Library)
- Littauer Library
- Loeb Music Library
- Social Sciences Program (includes Harvard Map Collection, Government Documents/Microforms, Environmental Information Center, Numeric Data Services, Fung Library)
- Quad Library
- Tozzer Library

Harvard's Graduate and Professional Schools

Each of Harvard's graduate and professional faculties supports additional significant libraries. These include:

- Andover-Harvard Theological Library—Harvard Divinity School

Harvard College Library Research and Instructional Services

Widener Library

Phone: 617-495-2401

hcl.harvard.edu/research/for_instructors/index.html

Librarians within each of the Harvard College libraries offer a variety of services designed to help instructors assist their students in the effective use of library resources. In addition, each FAS department is associated with a Library Liaison, a reference librarian dedicated to assisting faculty, staff, and students with research-related matters. Library Liaisons create and teach library-related classes, provide one-on-one consultation, write course research guides, assist with content for course websites, and provide general reference services to the department.

Library Websites

Harvard Libraries

lib.harvard.edu

A major starting point for research is the "Harvard Libraries" website, which is an online gateway to the library resources of Harvard University. The site serves as an important research tool for Harvard's current students, faculty, staff, and researchers who hold HUIDs and PINs. Through E-Research @ Harvard Libraries, it provides access to over 20,000 electronic resources and journals licensed by the Harvard libraries, as well as links to all of the Harvard library catalogs. It also points to research guides compiled by the libraries across campus and provides practical information on each of the more than 90 libraries that form the Harvard system.

Most of Harvard's libraries also have developed their own websites, which are full of valuable links and information covering their areas of specialty.

E-Research @ Harvard Libraries
e-research.lib.harvard.edu

E-Research @ Harvard Libraries is an online library service that provides access for Harvard users to over 20,000 electronic resources and journals and allows users to store and manage their search results.

Using E-Research, users can:

- Find and access article databases and indexes, encyclopedias, e-book and e-journal collections, and many other electronic resources.
- Find articles on a topic by searching across the content of multiple e-resources with a single search.
- Find and access individual electronic journals by title, subject or ISSN.
- Add selected e-resources to personal lists for cross-searching and reference (My E-Resources).
- Save lists of favorite e-journals for quick reference (My E-Journals).
- Store links to articles, books, and other items (My Citations).
- View past searches (Saved Searches).
- Save citations to local workstations or to bibliographic management software such as EndNote.
- Click on "Find It @ Harvard" buttons for all search results in order to locate items online or on the shelves at Harvard libraries.

In order to achieve maximum benefit from E-Research @ Harvard Libraries and to access all of Harvard's licensed e-resources, Harvard users should log in, using Harvard IDs and PINs, at the beginning of each session.

A Research Tool for Library Users
hcl.harvard.edu

This user-friendly site is a complement to the Harvard Libraries portal and offers quick access to a variety of research tools like research guides, research contacts, online forms, Ask a Librarian online reference service, and information about hours, admittance and borrowing, copying and scanning services, exhibitions and events, services for persons with disabilities, and more. The Quick Start features for undergraduates and graduate students who are new to the library system is particularly helpful.
